

GUILBERT BALKS AT REQUEST

And Would Not Produce Checks of the Cashier

HELD AS "CASH ITEMS"

Probing Committee Will Decide Monday What Action Will be Taken.

Columbus, O., April 18.—Auditor of State Walter D. Guilbert yesterday refused to turn over to the Howe investigating committee cashiers' checks issued by the Capitol Trust and Savings bank to Treasurer McKinnon in payment of excise taxes collected by him through this financial institution. Guilbert is president of this bank, and it was shown at yesterday's session, according to the report of the committee's expert accountant, that large amounts, totaling more than a million dollars, were deposited in this bank at various times since the state depository law went into effect. Treasurer McKinnon is one of the stockholders in the bank.

Because of the refusal of Auditor Guilbert the committee finds itself confronted with the same condition that beset the Drake committee in Cincinnati, which brought about the legal contention resulting in the Supreme court declaring that committee to be invalid.

Instead of funds being turned over to the treasurer, the committee proposes to prove that cashiers' checks, signed by Alexander W. Mackenzie, who holds that position, were given to the treasurer, who held them as "cash items," while the real cash was kept in the bank and used for its benefit in the usual run of banking business. The committee has the refusal of the auditor under advisement, and will not decide until Monday what action will be taken.

The stand taken by Auditor Guilbert has practically brought the work of the committee to a halt. It was endeavoring to prove that the auditor had the use of the public funds in vast amounts for several months at a time.

Several days ago he was asked to produce pass books and checks issued by banks in which he deposited these funds, "mostly checks for collection," he said. He gave the committee a handful of canceled paper representing the checks he drew on his bank, but did not produce the others, as he did not retain them. Upon questioning, it developed that upon these checks Cashier Mackenzie issued his check, which afterward was converted into cash and turned over to Treasurer McKinnon.

ENDORSED

Both Johnson and Bryan at Meeting of the Illinois County Central Committee.

Aurora, Ill., April 18.—Bryan's supporters kicked up a rumpus at the Kane county central committee at Geneva, yesterday, because Governor Johnson was endorsed in as glowing terms as Mr. Bryan, while the 14 delegates go to the state convention at Springfield uninstructed. In the resolution Bryan was characterized the "peerless leader," but Johnson was acclaimed the champion of honest government. It was expected that the Kane county committee would instruct for Bryan while, as a matter of fact, sentiment developed was very Johnson.

TEXAS FLOODS

Are Spreading and Many Lives Have Been Endangered—Loss Will be Hundreds of Thousands.

Dallas, Texas, April 18.—The flood in Trinity river valley has claimed two lives, while 26 persons were rescued by Sheriff Ledwith. When aid reached the marooned parties, their homes had been inundated. The water is the worst in 20 years, and rain is falling. At Fort Worth the water supply is threatened. The damage will run into hundreds of thousands.

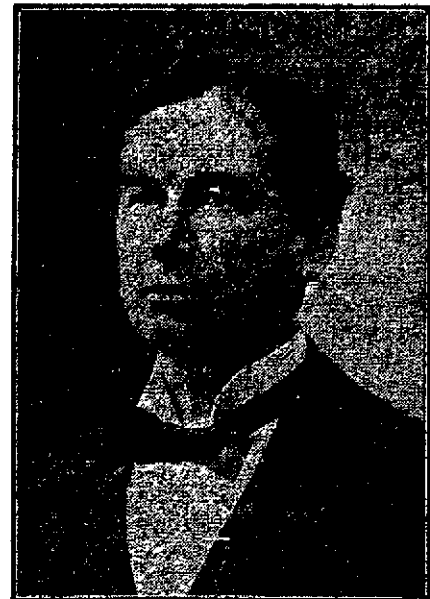

JOHN DAVID JONES

WILL BE CANDIDATE FOR DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE.

An Honored Citizen and Member of the Bar Who Would Make an Ideal Jurist.

Judge John David Jones will be a candidate for circuit judge of the circuit comprising Licking and fourteen other counties, before the Democratic convention shortly to be held.

Judge Jones is a native of this county; has lived here all his life, and is about 60 years of age. He came from sturdy Welsh stock—his parents having settled in the Welsh Hills region, between Newark and Granville, in the early days of the settlement of Licking county. His father and mother were people of common school education, strong religious faith, and uncompromising moral principles and possessed wide intelligence for the people of those times and circumstances. They believed in education, and gave to their son a collegiate course at Denison university. He being a man endowed with strong intellect, rugged common sense and great industry immediately made his mark in college, and after his admission to the bar, quickly rose to a place of prominence among the lawyers of the county.

Judge Jones' experience at the bar has been extended. He has enjoyed a large practice, which embraced a wide range of subjects, which usually came before the practitioner and the courts. His fitness and ability as a lawyer were recognized by his election to the office of prosecuting attorney of the county for two consecutive terms, and then to the common pleas bench of this judicial district, where he served for five years with marked satisfaction to the members of the bar and to the community generally.

Upon the bench Judge Jones developed a strong individuality and exceptional judicial traits as a fearless, able and impartial judge. He also developed a marked ability for the dispatch of public business. He found the docket in a congested condition and made great headway toward the accumulation of cases. Judge Jones was a soldier in the late war, acquitted himself with honor and credit, and is held in high esteem by the soldier-element of the county.

Judge Jones' private life has been above reproach. He has lived a clean, honorable, and upright life, and in every relationship of social intercourse he has earned the esteem of all his friends and neighbors.

Newark is centrally located in this judicial circuit, and the residence of a circuit judge here would enable the members of the bar and litigants generally, easily to reach the judge for the transaction of public business requiring the personal attention of the judge between the regular sessions of the court.

Judge Jones would make an ideal circuit judge, a strong member of the court, because of his eminent qualifications by natural endowment and experience, his judicial temperament and his record as a lawyer, a soldier and a citizen.

Licking county will be a unit for Judge Jones' nomination. Already his candidacy has met with hearty favor among the members of the bar of adjoining counties where his services upon the bench are known and appreciated, and the members of the Newark bar are confidently expecting his nomination as the Democratic candidate for this position.

JEALOUSY CAUSE OF SEPARATION

Mrs. Frank Jay Gould is Third in the Family for Divorce

A VIGOROUS DEFENSE

Will be Made by Husband Who Gives Out Remarkable Interview.

New York, April 18.—Mrs. Frank Jay Gould, the young and beautiful wife of Jay Gould's youngest son, has begun in the supreme court an action against her husband for separation on the grounds of cruelty and neglect. Papers in the case were served on Mr. Gould in the Hotel Plaza.

Mr. Gould has filed no counter suit, and so far as can be learned, does not contemplate any action, save in the nature of a vigorous defense. The nature of the cruelty and neglect charged against Mr. Gould has not yet been made public, filing of papers in the court having been delayed but in a general way it is learned that the husband's extreme jealousy is at the bottom of the difficulty. His wife's beauty makes her the center of attraction wherever she appears and the gallantries to which she has been made the object have resulted in so many quarrels between the young couple that the wife has finally declared to conserve her peace of mind by seeking a legal separation.

"It can be stated on the highest authority, however, that there will be no action for divorce on the part of either, and specifically, that Mr. Gould has not begun an action of any kind against his wife."

On the contrary, in a remarkable interview which Mr. Gould gave to a reporter last night, while aboard a train bound for Hot Springs, there is held out a strong possibility that a reconciliation, for which Mrs. Edward Kelly (mother of Mrs. Gould) is working, may be brought about.

Shocked by the news that Mrs. Gould charges cruelty and neglect, society will be mystified by the attitude which the husband assumes toward his wife. There is a note of remorse, of a conflict with adverse fate, of the "curse of wealth" to use his own phrase, in the articulated remarks which the young man made in response to the reporters' questions. "A fellow can have a bully wife," he cried, "beautiful children, money and all that and still that chap can be cursed — made unhappy. It's hardly THIRTY-SEVENTH PRIME MINISTER OF ENGLAND.

SIR HENRY CAMPBELL-BANNERMAN.

Thirty-seventh Prime Minister of England, counting by individuals, though fifty-fifth by count of administrations, since the days of Walpole, the accepted head of the line, Herbert Henry Asquith, on receiving his appointment from King Edward, has become the second important figure in the British Empire. The prescribed course has been duly followed in the transfer of authority on the resignation of one prime minister and the installation of his successor, but there has been no political crisis. The administration which came into power two years ago by a complete turnover of the unionist regime of nearly twenty years remains practically the same. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, who formed it, has, to the general regret of his party and opponents alike, been compelled by the failure of his strength to hand the reins to another.

fair, now, it is? I need a change and then I wanted to escape 'I this,' pointing to a heap of newspapers by his side.

"But the fates are against you?" "Not that; no, not that. If I had been a poor chap I could have escaped it all. This is another curse of money," and the young millionaire disconsolately buried his face in his hands.

He is the third of the six children of the late Jay Gould who have become enmeshed in domestic difficulties, and this time the public are still discussing the troubles of Mrs. Anna Gould, his sister, and the Prince de Sagan. This fact weighed heavily upon him, apparently, and he spoke bitterly of the distressing publicity that was being thrust upon him.

DIED BEFORE A CROWD.

Haleyville, Ala., April 18.—With a drawn razor in his hand and threatening to kill any one who tried to prevent him from committing suicide H. H. Newman drew the sharp steel across his throat before half a hundred helpless onlookers and fell to the floor in the depot, expiring a few moments afterward.

ABE HUMMEL HAVING THE TIME OF HIS LIFE

London, April 18.—Abe Hummel, the New York lawyer who served ten months on Blackwell's Island for subornation of perjury in the Dodge-Morse divorce scandal, is having the time of his life here.

Hummel is living the life of an English gentleman at the Savoy hotel and in response to an inquiry today as to how he likes London, said: "Do I like this town? I like it so well I never want to leave it. I begin to think now that life is really worth living."

Hummel is living his old life of gaiety that he followed when Broadway knew him best. Only the scene is changed. Any morning he can be seen in top hat and frock coat strolling along the Strand or Piccadilly toward Hyde Park with the air of a born "Johnny." At night it is the theaters or restaurants for him. Hummel looks exceedingly well, despite the reports while he was in the pen that he was at the point of death, and says he never felt better in his life.

BAN OF THE CHURCH AGAINST MARRIAGE

Philadelphia, April 18.—The ban of the Catholic church against another marriage on the part of Helen Maloney, daughter of Martin Maloney, Standard Oil magnate and papal marquis, to Samuel Clarkson, Englishman, with whom she eloped after marrying Osborne, was announced today by Arch-Bishop Ryan.

What the millions of King Henry VIII could not accomplish, certainly the millions of Marun Maloney will not be able to do," was the declaration of the prelate. "If there was a marriage," he said, "no power, not even that of the Pope, could bring about any further marriage ceremony for Miss Maloney which would be sanctioned by the church."

THINKS HISTORY WILL REPEAT ITSELF IN COMING CONVENTION

Washington, April 18.—That history will repeat itself in the coming Republican National Convention and that Roosevelt and Fairbanks will be the nominees for President and Vice President is the prediction of John A. Stewart of New York, "resident of the League of Republican clubs, who has just returned to Washington after a trip of several weeks through the Empire state."

"A month ago the farmers of New York were talking Taft and Hughes," said he today, "now the only name heard is Roosevelt's. There is only one man in the party who can with certainly remove New York state from the list of doubtful states and that man is Theodore Roosevelt."

"There is no doubt in the world that the people want Roosevelt to serve another term. The sentiment of the New York convention was for Roosevelt; so was that of the Missouri convention, the Virginia convention, and the North Carolina convention. I firmly believe that the ticket there will be Roosevelt and Fairbanks—as it was four years ago. The one must go against his inclinations and the other smother his ambition for another four years."

and returned today from Europe. "Mr. Croker is in excellent health, and is very happy with his horses," said Lee. "I asked him why he didn't return to America and re-enter politics of Wantage and with a sweep of his arm said, 'Would you change all I have here for the struggle and fires of politics?' I had to agree with him that I wouldn't and I never expect him to return here."

PASTOR'S WIFE A SUICIDE.

Kewanee, Ill., April 18.—Mrs. Brooks, wife of Rev. J. G. Brooks, state evangelist for Congregational churches, committed suicide yesterday at the family home here. She was suffering from nervous prostration.

AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

Will Probably be Dissolved Within a Short Time

TWO REASONS ASSIGNED

Federal Cigar Company Will Take Over Cigar Branch of Business.

Richmond, Va., April 18.—Rumors are current in this city to the effect that the American Tobacco company, with branches all over the world, is about to dissolve. The dissolution is practically admitted by officials of the company in this city, who will not allow their names to be mentioned in connection with the admission. This step, it is said, has been decided upon on the advice of attorneys for the company in Washington, who are of the opinion that the company will be liable under the terms of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The pending dissolution was the sole topic of discussion in tobacco circles in Richmond Friday. Two reasons are assigned for the reported prospective dissolution, which is possible by mutual agreement of the board of directors of the company. The first is that the company is acting under the advice of counsel; the other being that the company has grown to such enormous size, and its business methods have become so complicated, that dissolution has been resolved upon as a matter of business expediency.

The company has hundreds of hand-made cigar branches located in Petersburg, and Norfolk, Va., Philadelphia, Pa., Baltimore, Md., New York, N. Y., Jacksonville, Tampa and Key West, Fla., Charleston, S. C., Chicago, Ill. and other places in this country, as well as Havana, Cuba, and many other cities in foreign countries, including the Philippine islands and the Hawaiian group and China.

When the three machine-made cigar plants start up again, it is said, they will no longer be connected with the American Tobacco company. They will be known as the Federal Cigar company, makers exclusively of machine-made cigars.

Representatives of the American Tobacco company declined to discuss the situation, further than to admit that the rumored pending dissolution of the combine is substantially true.

New York, April 18.—W. W. Fuller, chief counsel of the American Tobacco company, today denied the reported plan of the trust to dissolve. Mr. Fuller declared the story emanating from Richmond that a reorganization of the trust is proposed to be absolutely false. "No change of any sort in the American Tobacco company is contemplated," the attorney said.

BOY GAVE LIFE TO SAVE KITTE

New York, April 18.—Ten year old Dominico Bello gave up his life for a pet kitten yesterday. He was crushed under a large electric truck as he tried to rescue his pet. The kitten was unhurt.

Edward Fliberty, who was running a truck of the New York Edison company, stopped in East 39th street. As he turned on the power to proceed again the kitten leaped from the arms of little Dominico who was playing on the sidewalk, and ran under the truck. Thinking only of saving the animal's life, Dominico ran under the moving vehicle. One rear wheel passed over his chest, killing him instantly.

DON DICKINSON

Detroit, Mich., April 18.—Don M. Dickinson of Detroit, a former member of President Cleveland's cabinet, and for many years a national figure in the Democratic party, is dying at Oak Grove sanitarium at Flint, Mich. He broke down with nervous prostration some time ago and became so unbalanced that he was removed to the retreat.

TAG DAY

Success For King's Daughters—Many Workers Dine at Elks' Club Where Luncheon Was Served.

Although the drizzling rain of the morning kept many people off the street, yet the "Tag Day" of the King's Daughters was very satisfactory and the What-so-ever, Sunshine and Brightening circles are considerably richer through the efforts of the young ladies that sold the "tags."

Almost every man and many women were decorated this morning before they had been down street for any length of time, for the vendors of the purple and white pasteboards were energetic and worked hard. No particular price was asked for any of the tags, but as no change was forthcoming a good many people were "stung," but no one cared for it was for a good cause.

From 10 until 2 o'clock luncheon was served the ladies in the club rooms of the Elks, and Steward Brown received many compliments for the satisfactory lunch he served. The menu consisted of sandwiches, pickles, olives, cream cheese, cake and coffee. The big parlor of the club was eagerly sought by the tired ones.

The ladies that worked in the interest of the King's Daughters were: Mesdames B. M. East, Ethel Wheeler, Margaret Jones, W. D. Fulton, Thomas Brown, A. S. Stephan, C. F. Legge, W. T. Moore, E. S. OVERTAXED.

Hundreds of Newark Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed; Have too much to do. They tell about it in many aches and pains—Backache, sideache, headache, Early symptoms of kidney ills. Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

Mrs. A. J. Gordon, living on Chestnut street, Dresden, Ohio, says: "I suffered severely from a disordered condition of my kidneys. The passages of the secretions were very frequent at times and at others very scanty and painful and I was very nervous and dizzy and suffered from a constant backache. I used many different remedies but was gradually running down in health when I procured Doan's Kidney Pills. I can conscientiously say that I received more positive relief from their use than from any other remedy. Mr. Gordon has also used Doan's Kidney Pills for a lame back with satisfactory results."

Plenty more proof like this from Newark people. Call at A. F. Crayton's drug store and ask what customers report.

BRING PRESENTSAccording to reports from the local are saving tobacco tags than ever be-tremendous increase is due to the ac-valuable presents in return for tags.

Such brands as J. T. Granger Twist, Town Talk, Standard Navy, Tinsley's

ANNOUNCEMENTS OF CANDIDATES

The charge for the announcement in both the Daily and Weekly publications will be the usual price of $2.00, payable in advance.

STATES TO BE PROTECTED FROM INJUNCTION

Washington, April 18.—The Senate yesterday passed Senator Overman's bill prohibiting federal judges from issuing injunctions against states, except on five days' notice to the governor and the attorney general of the state against whom the proceedings are to be brought and forbidding an injunction before the arguments were heard except in cases where applications for the injunction might suffer large and irreparable loss during the hearing on questions involved. Under the provisions of the proposed law the rights of states would be fully protected as no circuit judge could grant a temporary injunction, and no corporation could obtain such an order until after the case had been heard by three judges. The provision allowing an appeal to be taken direct to the United States supreme court from a decision of the three judges who heard the arguments in the original proceedings, would go far toward wiping out the feeling which now existed because of long and tedious delays in getting a final decision in cases of this character.

She has made a great reputation as a reader and is an equally good soprano singer. Every one of the five members of this troupe are artists and their program is one of great variety as well as artistic and pleasing quality. Seats are on sale at the Y. M. C. A.

Blood Humors

Persistent Eczema—Druggist Advised Proper Medicine—Another Complete Cure.

It makes no difference how severe or long-seated a case of bad blood, humors, eczema or scrofula may be, Hood's Sarsaparilla cures just the same.

It has the greatest record of any medicine ever made. Has received the largest number of testimonials—40,366 in two years.

It is the one above all others for you to take if you need a thoroughly good medicine for your blood.

Read the following from Mr. C. C. Bailey, a well-known pump manufacturer, of Champaign, Ill.

"When I asked my doctor what that eruption was which came under my right ear, and which had refused to yield to boric treatment, he said it was a bad case of eczema and that it would take a long time to cure it. Another doctor said it was about the worst case he ever saw. I followed their advice for 16 months, and still the eruption would not heal. "One day I asked the druggist if he had anything he thought would do me good. He said if anything would cure me it was

WHEN WE WERE FRIENDS.
One of the newest offerings for the present season will be Macauley & Patton's production of "When We Were Friends," the beautiful comedy drama. It is a clean refined high-class play. The scenery both elaborate and appropriate and the pretty modern finery used by both the male and female members are beyond description. The manager of the Auditorium promises patrons of that house one of the theatrical treats of the season tonight in the above production. William Macauley appears in the leading role, that of "Wallace Desmond."

YE COLONIAL STOCK CO.
The attraction at the Auditorium for the week of April 20th will be Ye Colonial Stock company numbering 18 people. They come to us highly recommended, and will present a repertoire of plays entirely new to the theatre-going public of this city. The opening bill will be that beautiful four act comedy drama entitled "The Heart of Alabama." This play, unlike most melo-dramas, really has a semblance of heart interest in it and carries its theme well, preserving the story through all the various scenes. Vandeville of a high class will be introduced between the acts, thus avoiding all waits. This company is said to be far above the average repertoire companies, and should be greeted with crowded houses. Ladies will be admitted free on opening night if accompanied by a person holding a paid 30 cent reserved seat ticket which must be reserved before 6 p. m. Monday.

DANIEL SULLY.
Daniel Sully's impersonation of Father O'Neill in "The Golden Rule" brings into view a beautiful and tender homeliness and a noble sincerity as well as a courageous manliness that arouses sympathetic interest and raises the spectator quite above mere theatrical convention. There is in the character no false sentiment; he speaks no fustian and he performs no superhuman acts, but he interests us at the moment of his first appearance on the scene and compels us to go with him through all the vicissitudes of Wall Street and the Bowery, till his final triumph and assurance of the battle are won.

Cincinnati, O., April 17, '08. Manager E. T. Johnson, Auditorium. Dear Sir: No doubt you have read about Mr. Sully's runaway accident. I wish to notify you that he has recovered all right and will play all dates contracted for. Yours very truly, W. D. REED.

A GLANCE AHEAD.
All the elements which go to make up a successful show are at hand in the offering for next week at the Orpheum. A formidable array of prominent entertainers have been secured. For one of the features they offer Edwin and Kathryn Deavor in an up-to-date comedy entitled "The Dutch Girl and the Cheap Skate." Velare and Clark are a pair of noted equilibrists, who commence where lots of others leave off. Miss Georgia Lewis has a single breezy singing turn which should prove a winner. Robish and Childress are claimed to be very fine. Miss Childress possesses a sweet voice and is a vivacious little worker. Mr. Robish is a clever comedian and the "team" are sure to take well.

"FRA DIAVOLO"

Assured of Successful Patronage in the Forthcoming Production of the Popular Opera.

The presentation of Auber's opera, "Fra Diavolo," by local talent at the Auditorium on Tuesday, April 28, is now assured of successful patronage, as Mr. Reynolds has announced a partial list of patrons as follows:

George B. Sprague, Mrs. Edwin Wright, Henry Norris, Dr. Willard Rank, Dr. Thad Rank, Florence M. King, the Misses Sarah and Margaret Buckingham, the Rev. Lewis P. Franklin, A. H. Heiser, Will Lemart, Harry Rosell, Roe Emerson, Mrs. Daly, Mrs. Channing Thompson, U. O. Stevens, Miss Florence Lemert, George Hermann, Prof. W. W. Nusbaum, Harry Brown, Anson White, James K. Hamill and Dr. J. J. Knight of Columbus.

MANTELL

Gives Wonderful Interpretation of Shakespeare's "King Lear" to Good Audience.

It was magnificent, and Newark people can well understand why Robert Mantell is called the greatest living exponent of the Shakespearean drama. There was a very good audience considering the fact that it was good Friday, and Mr. Mantell was well assured that his work was appreciated, for at every fall of the curtain he was forced to respond to encores.

PARISHIONERS

JOURNEYED ON FOOT TO MT. CALVARY TO ATTEND GOOD FRIDAY CELEBRATION.

Impressive Services Conducted and Eloquent Sermon Delivered by Father Watterson.

By actual count, there were 1,500 Catholics of the city representing the parishes of St. Francis de Sales and the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, who journeyed on foot from St. Francis de Sales church Friday afternoon to Mt. Calvary cemetery, a distance of two miles, to attend the celebration of the Stations of the Cross.

The procession was nearly a mile long, and marched in the following order, headed by the bearer of the cross:

The Rev. Fathers O'Boylan, Watterson and Prunkelt.
Uniform Rank, Knights of St. John.
Knights of Columbus.
Ancient Order of Hibernians.
School Children.
Men, women and children of the two parishes.

There are fourteen stations of the cross in Mt. Calvary, extending from the main entrance up over the hill to the south side of the cemetery. At each of these short service, followed by the Lord's Prayer, was said by the Rev. Fr. O'Boylan. During the exercises the full uniformed rank of the Knights of St. John faced the crosses, standing at station.

Stabat Mater was sung by the priests and Knights on the march between crosses.

Following the service at the fourteenth cross, the immense congregation collected in front of the porch of the cemetery residence and listened to a most eloquent sermon on the passion and suffering of Jesus, by the Rev. Fr. Watterson of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament.

Father Watterson described the betrayal, trials and crucifixion of Jesus in a manner that was both grand and pathetic. His pictures were shown in a detailed way together with the real object of them, their purpose and the effect that should follow on man. The speaker called particular attention to the importance of Holy Week to the followers of the Christian religion and what it should mean to all, eloquently pointing out the lessons that people of today were to see plainly written in the trials of the King of the Jews.

Father Watterson landed the faithful Catholics of Newark for their earnestness in following in the procession to Mt. Calvary, in representing the journey of Christ to Calvary. The service was marked with impressiveness throughout and was, without doubt, one of the biggest spectacles of the kind ever beheld in the city.

"Consumption had me in its grasp; and I had almost reached the jumping off place when I was advised to try Dr. King's New Discovery; and I want to say right now, it saved my life. INJURED

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cada Thrown from Carriage in Runaway Collision Near Granville.

In a runaway accident north of Granville, Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cada, the parents of Chas. Cada, residing on Channel street, North Newark, were thrown from their carriage and Mrs. Cada sustained painful injuries about the chest and shoulder besides several minor bruises.

Mr. and Mrs. Cada were nearing their home, after a drive to Johnstown, when a team of ponies hitched to a buggy, and belonging to Charles Bell, came running down the road. An effort to get out of their way was futile and the animals crashed into the Cada carriage. Both buggies were completely demolished and Mr. and Mrs. Cada were thrown to the roadway with considerable force. Mr. Cada escaped injury. Being near their home they succeeded in getting to the house without aid, where the injuries were given proper attention.

NERVY BURGLAR

ADMIRE THE BABY WHILE HE IS ROBBERING THE HOME OF A CHICAGO ATTORNEY.

Hurries From Home Claiming He Was Afraid Lawyer Would Hold Him Up.

Chicago, April 18.—A burglar held Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lee of 231 South Park avenue, terror stricken in the hall room of their home last night, covered with a revolver, while he admired the baby. Lee, hearing the noise, got up to investigate. In the hall he ran into two men, both masked, one of whom pointed a revolver under Lee's nose, saying: "Hands up, old man." Mrs. Lee meanwhile had locked herself in the bedroom. Then courageously she unlocked the door and went into the hall to share her husband's danger.

"That's a cute baby," observed the burglar to the frightened mother. "I'm fond of children."

"A man in my business never gets rich," remarked Mr. Lee as his contribution to the conversation.

"What is your business, may I ask?" inquired the burglar, politely.

When Mr. Lee replied, "A lawyer," the masked man laughed and said:

"We'd better hurry out. I'm held up every day by men of your class." As he was about to depart he said: "Allow me to offer you a cigar. (One of Lee's). You needn't mind troubling to let me out. This gun might go off."

Then he ran down the stairway to the open window on the first floor and departed. He carried away $200 worth of plunder.

THE WEATHER.

The weather's always in the air and damage great will do, to wood that's unprotected, for the sun to filter through. A house may stand unpainted, but 'twill not be very long, before the rain and dampness will put the wood all wrong. If you would guard against all this and save your house from rain, you'll buy some Spartan White Lead and paint it very soon. Spartan White Lead will outwear any other White Lead made. GANG

That Held Up and Shot Joseph Ugy All Captured—Last Member Arrested Today.

The police made another unexpected swoop this morning at 7-30, and John (Red) Smith, the fifth member of the holdup gang that shot and assaulted Joseph Ugy and George Kerona last Saturday night, is languishing behind prison bars.

Officers Hager, McClure and Callan made the trip to Wilson street, where the young man lives, and met him just as he was leaving the house. He was placed under arrest and the patrol called. Like the quartet that preceded him he was bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $200.

The police are entitled to a great deal of credit for their prompt and successful work in this case, which at the outset was shrouded in mystery. Step by step the different clues were run down, dissected, and the facts secured. One by one the different members of the gang, all of them young men, were arrested.

All of the crowd with possibly one or two exceptions, have police records and all are sure of a term in the reformatory. Each has confessed to the police that they were in the masked crowd that stopped the two foreigners at the point of a gun. One has confessed to the shooting, and the last of the five "Red" Smith, has confessed that he helped to knock Ugy down.

How Ugy received the cut over the eye is unknown, for none of the boys admit using a knife, and the theory of the police, that brass knuckles were used, is probably correct.

TAKES ABOUT FIVE MINUTES TO CURE YOUR INDIGESTIONRead Why Nothing Will Upset Your Stomach or Remain Undigested
If You Eat DiapiesinAfterwards.
You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of a case of indigestion or Diapiesin, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach if you will take one 22-grain Triangle of Diapiesin after eating.Your meals will taste good, and anything you eat will be digested; nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or Stomach gas, which causes Belching, Dizziness, a feeling of fullness after eating, Nausea, Indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach),
Biliousness, Heartburn, Water brash, Pain in stomach and intestines or other symptoms.Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective Diapiesin is used. No matter what you think your trouble—call it by any name you choose—it is certain that the real cause is fermentation of the food you eat. All else are merelysymptoms or the result of this cause.
For all these things you will find a sure cure in Diapiesin, and one 22-grain Triangle, taken after your next meal, will prove this. Diapiesin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. Each triangle will digest 3,000 grains of food and leave nothing to ferment or sour. Any good pharmacy here can supply these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapiesin, which have the complete formula printed thereon to show just what you are taking, and that it is no more harmful than candy.Start taking Diapiesin today, and by tomorrow you will actually brag about your healthy, strong Stomach, for you then can eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery, and every particle of impurity and Gas that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives or any other assistant.

Screened Moisture and Game
Was Called Off.No baseball today.
The weather man dished up another variety of weather this morning, and as a result the Newark-Zanesville game scheduled for this afternoon was called off. Just why the man that runs the weather machine has it in for the Molders is bothering the manager and all the directors, but so far they have been unable to solve the problem.Every plan had been made to give the infants a beating that would even up for the Molder defeat of the other day, but nothing doing this p. m.
However, if the usual run of rain keeps up, every other day, a big crowd of rooters will go to Zanesville tomorrow afternoon to see the game, for according to dope it ought to be a nice day.The team will go down in the morning, but for the benefit of the rooters, and if there is enough of them to warrant it, a special car will leave the interurban station here at 1 p. m.
to carry the faithful to the ball ground in the next county.The boys were given a hard workout yesterday afternoon, and 13 innings of the national sport were played. The Colts pulled off several fast stunts to the delight of Manager Bob, and won the game 8 to 2. Just to show the Vets that he could, Berry-hill went into the box and lobbed them for an inning, then Ellison pitched great ball for five frames more. Koehl finished the game and was a steady as a clock.Beeman and Pannabaker worked for the Vets, and also pitched nicely.

vivid dream that the state prisoners in the city jail were about to cut their way to liberty by the use of a the door of the main corridor. He was just in time to foil the escape of five state prisoners.He confined the men in a steel cage until daylight, when they were sent to

GIRLS WHO WORK

Girls who work for their living are especially exposed to the dangers of organic feminine disorders. Standing all day, or sitting in cramped positions; walking to and from their places of employment in bad weather all tend to break down their delicate feminine organism.

No class of women are in need of greater assistance, and thousands of letters like the following demonstrate the fact that restores the feminine system to a strong, healthy, normal condition. Miss Abby F. Barrows, of Nelsonville, Ohio, writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I was very sick, had dull headaches, pain in my back, and a feminine weakness. I had been to several doctors and they did me no good. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me well and strong, and I can do most any kind of work. I am in better health than I ever was, and it is all due to your medicine."

Miss Lillian Ross, of 530 E. 84th St., New York, writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I had a female trouble, nervous headaches, and was tired all the time, and could not sleep. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me feel so much better that I hope every woman who suffers as I did will try it."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for feminine ills, and has positively cured thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice.

GUSHER

Is Struck Just West of Mansfield by Fairview Oil and Gas Company.

Mansfield, April 18.—The temporary lull in the excitement incident to oil and gas development in Richland county was dispelled last night when the announcement was made that a five-million gusher had been struck by the Fairview Oil and Gas company just west of this city.

For several days the drillers had been working in oil-saturated rock at a depth of nearly nineteen hundred feet, and when the drill reached the sand lying beneath the rock there was a spurt of oil and gas reaching to the height of the derrick.

Expert oil men from Pennsylvania and various parts of Ohio had been in the city for several days awaiting the outcome of this drilling, and they estimate the gas production at 5,000,000 feet a day, in addition to which there is a good flow of oil similar to the Pennsylvania product, estimated at 25 barrels daily.

The first rush of gas had scarcely come from the new well before excited prospectors were on their way to the homes of land-owners in the vicinity for the purpose of arranging to lease land not already under lease for drilling privileges, and today the city is swarmed with oil and gas men looking for a chance to get in while the water is warm.

MINERS

Will Vote Favorable to Two Year Agreement and Mines Will Resume Monday.

Toledo, April 18.—Circulators signed by President Lewis and Secretary Ryan, officers of the United Mine Workers, was today sent to all local unions. The circular directs locals to call a special meeting at once and vote on the proposition. It also urges that they vote favorable to a two-year agreement and to return their vote to the national headquarters at Indianapolis not later than April 25. The mines will open Monday, however, without waiting for the vote, which is regarded as certain to be favorable. In eastern Ohio alone 12,000 miners will resume Monday.

Bridgeport, O., April 18.—Orders were issued today that will put 7,000 miners in Belmont county alone and 12,000 in eastern Ohio at work Monday morning. The other miners in the field will return to work during the week as soon as arrangements can be perfected.

CORNS

Of Fair Maid Were Pared by John, and His Wife is Suing Him For Divorce.

Trenton, N. J., April 18.—All because he pared the corns of a fair neighbor, John Sykes, a resident here, is today without a wife. Vice Chancellor Walker severed his marital bonds after listening to heaps of evidence showing Sykes' unusual attentions to Mrs. Josephine Tabram.

The corns on Mrs. Tabram's shapely feet are the cause of all the trouble. They are very tender and Sykes turned amateur chiropodist to treat them. Mrs. Sykes' feelings also proved tender and when she heard of the affair she brought her husband into the divorce court.

The evidence showed Sykes had also been in the habit of visiting the Tabram home and braiding Mrs. Tabram's long and luxuriant hair as well as treating her corns. In pronouncing his judgment Vice Chancellor Walker said:

"We have had so much evidence in this case that the defendant himself must be convinced of his guilt."

PRODUCTION

In the Oil Districts of Ohio Slumped During Past Week—Several Good Wells.

Lima, April 18.—While more wells were drilled throughout the high grade crude oil districts of the central west during the past week, production slumped in Ohio, Indiana and West Virginia. Northwestern Ohio drilled 19 wells and but one was a failure. Indiana drilled 15 wells and four of the ventures were failures. Southern Ohio had a fair week with a gusher in Washington county boosting the initial output 380 barrels.

IMPORTANT MEASURES ARE KILLED

HOUSE AMUSES ITSELF BUT IS CALLED TO ACCOUNT IN THE SENATE.

Interesting Features of Auditor Guilbert's Examination by Probe Committee.

BY ORWELL C. RIDDLE.

Columbus, O., April 18.—(Special.)—This surely has been slaughter week in the house of the Ohio legislature. In addition to "killing time," of which the house has been guilty to the extreme all through the session, several important measures were killed this week.

The slaughter began when the Sties hunters' license bill was tabled after a long debate. Then followed the game of battledore and shuttlecock with the Burkhardt anti-tipping bill until it was sent back to the temperance committee as a polite way of denying that measure public obsequies. After that the second killing of the Van Dusen bill for a state board to examine civil engineers. The tabling of the Stockwell bill relating to annual grants of franchises to street railways by a vote of 45 to 30, mostly from the Republican side, because it was denounced on the floor as "another Tom Johnson measure," is another. Next the Bassett bill relating to garnishee proceedings in J. P. courts. Also the Lehmann bill to authorize county commissioners to collect and preserve historical data, which had a double death, as it was reconsidered after being defeated once and killed a second time by lacking just one vote of enough. After that the Reynolds bill to require advertisements for labor to state whether a strike is pending, this bill first being amended into an absurdity and then killed by a vote of 18 years to 50 days. The Wynne bill relating to appointment of building inspectors in cities, killed by the table route. The Roberts bill relating to detention of insane persons, lost by a vote of 55 to 12. Likewise the Bassett bill to require that official ballots be preserved 30 days after election. Finally, the Ervin bill to regulate ferries and fix their fares and tolls. This was almost as many as the house passed during the entire week.

SENATOR HAFNER.

Chairman of Senate Finance Committee, Who Laid Bare the Dilatory Tactics of the House.

Senator Hafner, chairman of the senate finance committee, talked plainly and to the point about the dilatoriness of the house during the debate on the Hypes resolution to recess from April 25 to May 4, and adjourn sine die May 4. He showed how unprepared the legislature is for final adjournment so soon, with the calendars of both branches congested with bills ready for passage and he did not mince words in criticising the tactics of the house. He did not hesitate to say that the conduct of the house compels the senate to adopt retaliatory tactics by holding back the general appropriation bill until the house disposes of some of the important bills that have passed the senate and are being held up by the house.

As soon as word of Senator Hafner's arraignment reached the house, which spent the entire forenoon killing one bill and passing two others, after passing two bills and killing one at the afternoon session adjourned for the day on motion of one of the Republican leaders although it was then only 4 o'clock p. m. This action on the part of the house was meant as a rebuke to the senate; but it only showed the pique of the house at having the truth so plainly spoken and corroborated the charge made by Mr. Hafner against the time-killing, politics-playing, filibustering Republican house.

In order that one more week may be given the house in which to dispose of some of the mass of unfinished business, the senate finance committee recommended that the active work of the session cease Friday,

May 1, with a recess to May 11 for final adjournment.

Despite their squealing about "partisan investigation," even Republican members of the legislature are beginning to realize that the senate probe committee is able to do a thorough and sufficient job of probing. Even the balking, bucking, halting, sulking Republican member of the committee, Senator Patterson of Ashland, admits the efficacy of the investigation being made, for he has already introduced two bills to correct abuses discovered. One cut off the fees still being paid county treasurers for remittances to the state treasury, which has passed both branches and is now a law signed by the governor. The other he introduced this week after further inquiry into the state auditor's office, and would repeal an old statute permitting funds received by state officials being paid into the treasury quarterly, which conflicts with the state depository law requiring such funds to be paid into the treasury weekly.

It will be remembered that when the probe was first thrust into the state treasury, Mr. McKinnon and his deputy, Mr. Green (now McKinnon's "heir apparent") to the office as candidate on the Cox-Brown-Guilbert ticket, were so ungallant and so indiscreet as to answer some perplexing questions by saying "none of your business," and their defenders among the Republican leaders in the house resisted inquiries by saying "it's nobody else's business," etc., etc. Also that when the probers got on the trail of Mr. Guilbert he admitted that he and his "heir apparent" have been too busy for two years to keep up the record of important transactions in the auditor's office. Mr. Guilbert showed a like reticence before the probe committee this week. In order that it can not be charged that the following extracts from his testimony are warped by partisan bias these extracts are quoted just as published in one of the Republican papers here at Columbus:

"During the examination Attorney Boyd cited an instance when he said $30,000 was allowed to lie in a bank from November until May, and asked: 'Was there any reason funds should be held so long in bank?'

"I don't care to answer the question."

"Why?" asked the attorney.

"Why should I?"

"Why shouldn't you answer this committee or any private citizen asking if there was any reason for detaining the state's money an unreasonable length of time in banks?"

"The business was transacted just as any other business was transacted."

"Do you mean to say that if you were conducting a private business you would allow these large balances to lie in bank without drawing any interest?"

"We have customers who carry balances as high as $80,000, on which they never get a cent of interest," said Mr. Guilbert.

"Did the M. & M. bank pay interest on commercial accounts?" asked Mr. Boyd.

"I know nothing about it," was the answer.

"Did you ever try to get any interest on the funds deposited in that bank?"

"I did not."

"Why?"

"Because I didn't, that's all."

"But what is the reason you didn't?"

"I have repeatedly given you all the information I can on these matters."

Another point of special interest in Mr. Guilbert's examination related to checks drawn on his account in banks to pay into the treasury. One of these cancelled checks when presented was found to be a cashier's check. Once more this testimony is quoted as published in a local Republican paper, so that a Republican reader can repudiate it:

"This doesn't show that the cash went to the treasurer," said Senator Howe. "The check may have been retained by the treasurer and the money allowed to stay in the bank for six months. Will you, as president of the bank, give the committee a note allowing its accountant to examine the accounts at the bank, to show when this money was paid from the bank into the treasury?"

"I'll answer that question later," said Mr. Guilbert. When Senator Howe insisted he said: "It seems to me that this committee is bent on putting me to all the inconvenience it possibly can. Now I've told you how this money was collected and how it was turned into the state treasury, and your expert says it is every cent there. I have nothing whatever to do with it when those checks were paid. I don't know whether I'll give you the authority or not. I'll answer that later."

"Senator Howe still insisted, but the auditor said he had neglected his official duties all winter to wait on the general assembly and he would not give an answer."

Besides Mr. Guilbert's refusal to answer there is a bit of humor concealed in that last paragraph. When asked some time ago why he had not kept up certain records of his office during the past two years he pleaded that the was "too busy." Now, he says the legislature has caused him to neglect his official duties all winter. On the contrary, the legislature is endeavoring to find out how he has been attending to his official duties and why he has been "too busy" the past two years to keep a record of how he attended to some official duties.

EXCESSIVE DRINKING

Excessive or continued use of alcoholic beverages always results in a diseased condition of the nervous system.

The drinking man is often heard to say, "I can stop of my own free will and when I wish," but the poor fellow is now devoid of the power to act at the proper time and in the right way—it's too late—the craving has secured a firm hold and because of the diseased nervous system he has not the ability for sustained effort. The result we all know.

Drunkenness is no longer considered a crime, eminent scientists and physicians have agreed that it is a disease, and must be treated as such.

The home treatment that has been used for a number of years, and is highly successful is Urine. It is sold under a positive guarantee that if it does not effect a cure your money will be refunded.

BRER RABBIT'S PEEP-HOLE By Joel Chandler Harris PICTURES BY J.M. CONDÉ

ONE afternoon Uncle Remus heard the voice of the little boy crying out, "I see you Uncle Remus, and you don't see me!" The old man looked all around, and then went to his door and peered out, but the child was invisible. Then Uncle Remus remembered a knot-hole in the weather-boarding of his cabin, and he cried out exultantly, "I see you, honey! I see you!" After awhile the little boy went into the cabin, and took his seat on Uncle Remus's clothes chest. "I was hard to find, wasn't I?" "You sho wuz," Uncle Remus replied, "like ol' Brer Rabbit when he had his peep-hole in de woods. Atter he played like he wuz de Wool-er-de-Wutts he hatter make hisse'f kinder skace in dat part er de county, ol' Brer Rabbit did."

"When Brer B'ar got home he seed de tracks dat Brer Rabbit had made wid honey on his foots, an' mo' dan dat, Brer Rabbit's ol' 'oman, vistin' 'roun' 'mongst de neighbors, hatter go an' tell it; she couldn't keep it ter hersef fer ter save her life."

"An de B'ar family made it so hot fer Brer Rabbit dat he hatter change his quarters. So he got 'im a peep-hole in de woods, an' a mighty good thing he did. De peep-hole wuz in a holler tree, an' dar's whar Brer Rabbit stay at endurin' er de time when he wanten take some res'. Well, he wuz in dar one day, kinder dozin', an' he hear somebody talkin'."

"He peep out, he did, an' dar wuz mighty nigh all de creeturs a-hol'in' a 'sembly, an' confabbin' wid one an'er jes like folks does up dar in 'Lanta-mantarium when de legislatur's settin' in dat big court-house what got de yaller gal 'on top er de steeple. Dar wuz de creeturs, Brer B'ar, Brer Wolf Brer Fox, an' mighty nigh all be rest un um. Brer B'ar tol' his mo'nful tale, an' some un do like dey wanten cry, an' some like dey'd des ez soon laugh ez not. Dey confabbed an' collogued, an' dey say dey won't be a bit erpeace an' good feelin' in dem neighborhoods, long ez de put up wid Brer Rabbit pranks. Ol' Brer Coon put bofe han's in his pockets an' say 'Le's go atter 'im an' wipe 'im off'n de face er de yeth, by jing!'"

"'Whar do he stay deze days?' sez ol' Brer Fox. 'I know,' se zee, Brer Polecat, an' den he run 'roun' whisper'n ter de creeturs, whiles dey held der nose. 'I'll git you bofe fer dis,' sez ol' Brer Rabbit, sezee, 'One for cussin' an' de yuther fer tellin'.'" "Who cussed, Uncle Remus?" the little boy asked. "Brer Coon; ain't you hear me say dat he say 'by jing'?" "Oh," exclaimed the child. "Long 'bout dat time, Brer Rabbit tuck a notion dat 'twuz high time fer him ter be slidin' out fum dar; so he shet up his peep-hole, an' slipped down fer de groun', an' crope off thoo de bushes, an' hid hisse'f so he kin see what de yuther creeturs gwine ter do. An' he ain't had long fer ter wait, kaze he ain't mo'n got hid good, 'fo' he see ol' Brer B'ar gwine thoo de woods, an' bimeby, here he come back wid a chunk er fier."

"Den all de creeturs went 'roun' pickin' up leaves an' trash, de vey same kind what Brer Rabbit skeer ol' Brer B'ar wid, an' dey pile um up 'fo' de do' leadin' ter Brer Rabbit's peep-hole, an in it an' on it they stuck de chunk er fier. When Brer Rabbit see dat, he make like he mad ez brinjer. He rush out whar de creeturs kin see 'im, an' he holler out, 'What you-all tryin' fer ter smifficate Brer Possum fer? What's he done? When an' whar is he hurt you-all's feelin's?'"

"An', sho 'nough, de smoke ain't been smokin' long 'fo' de creeturs hear sump'n drap in de holler, an' out come Brer Possum right spang thoo de fier! Right den an' dar his tail got singe' an' de ha'r on his back; an' ef you'll look right close, you'll fin' dat it's des like I tell you down ter dis day."

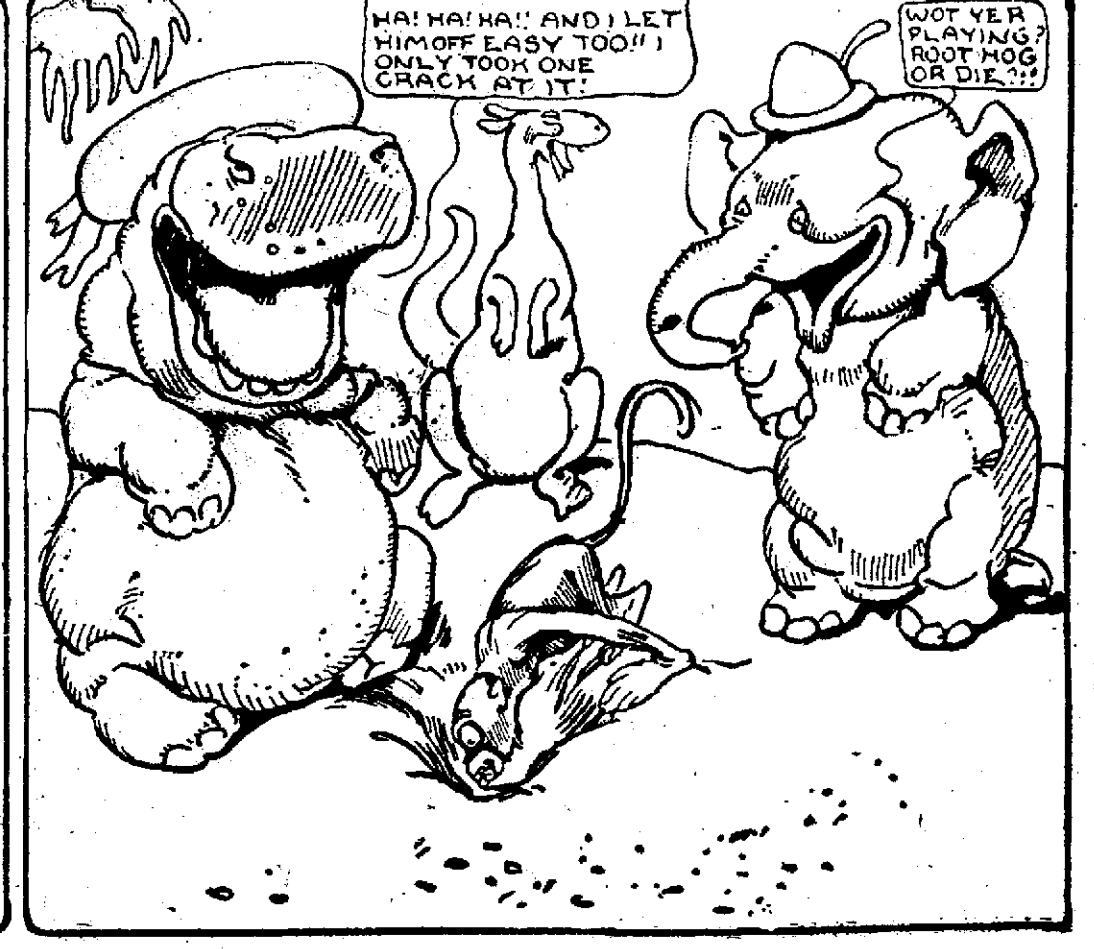

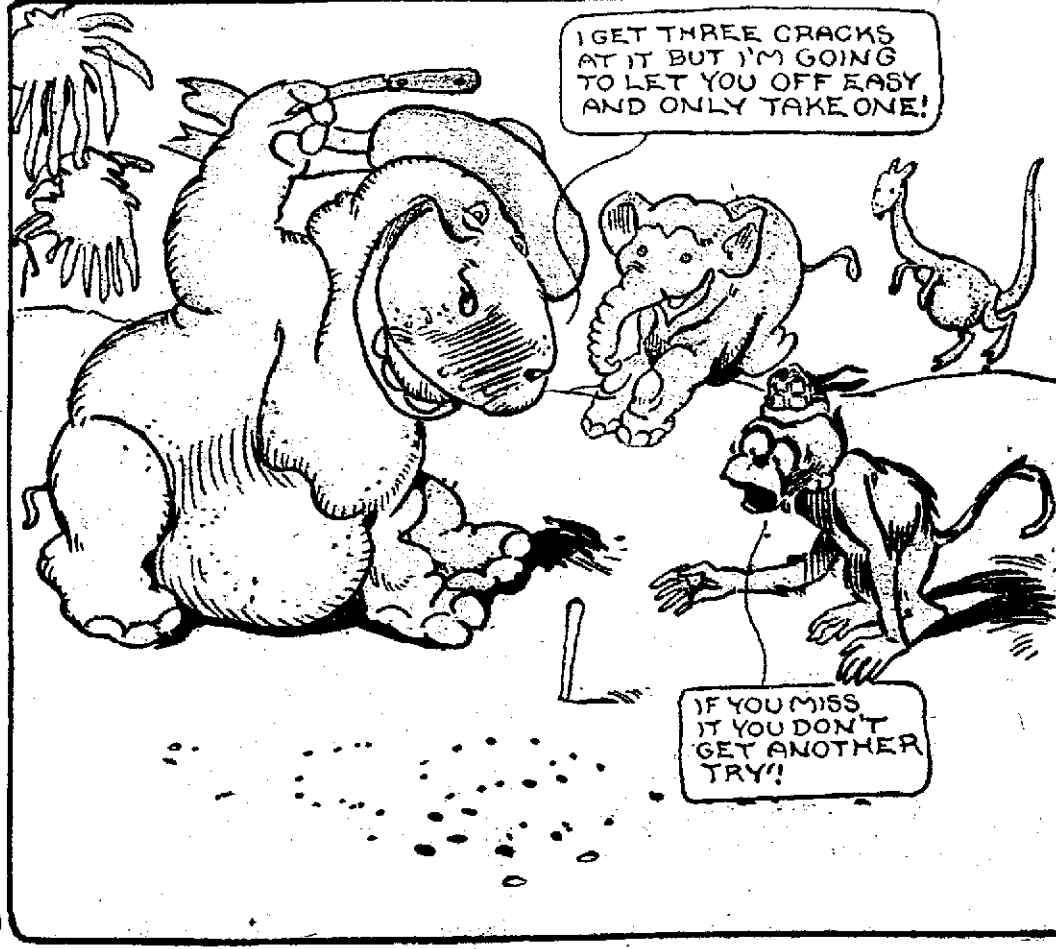

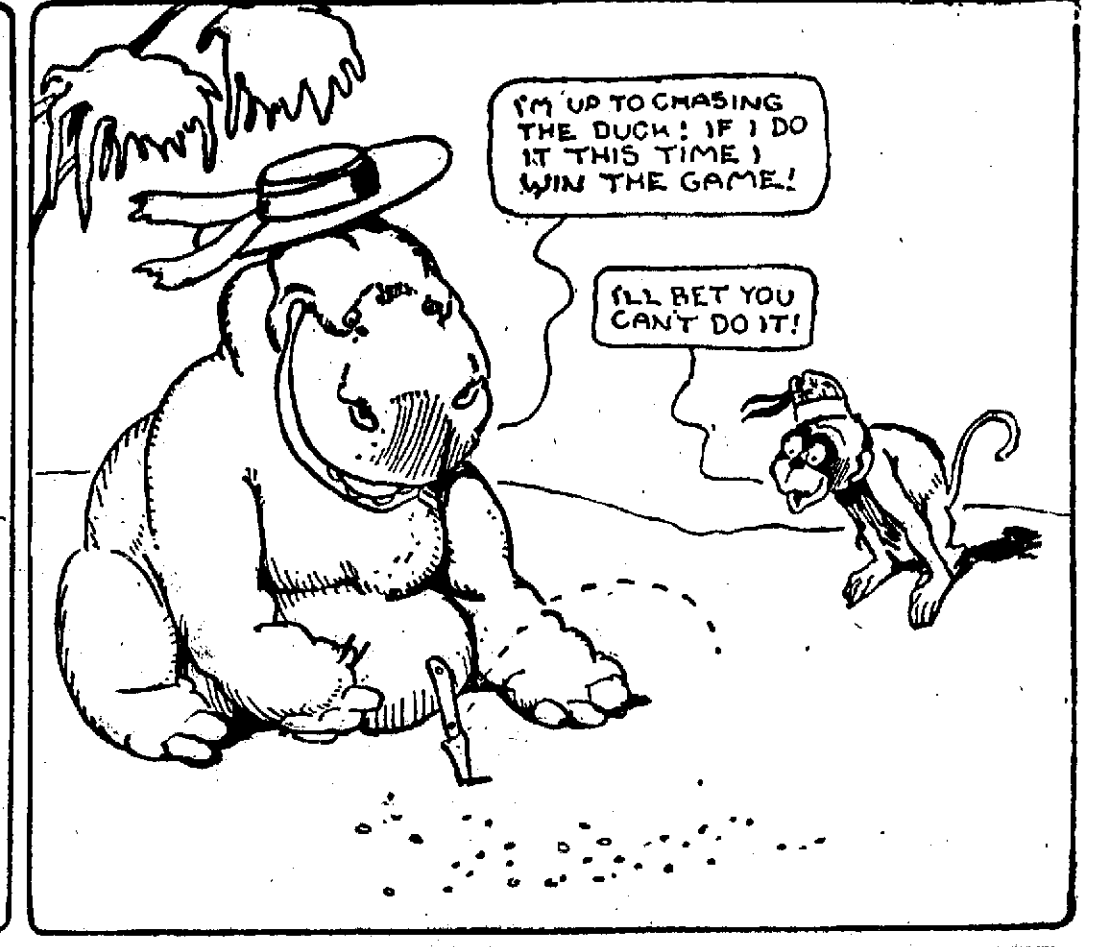

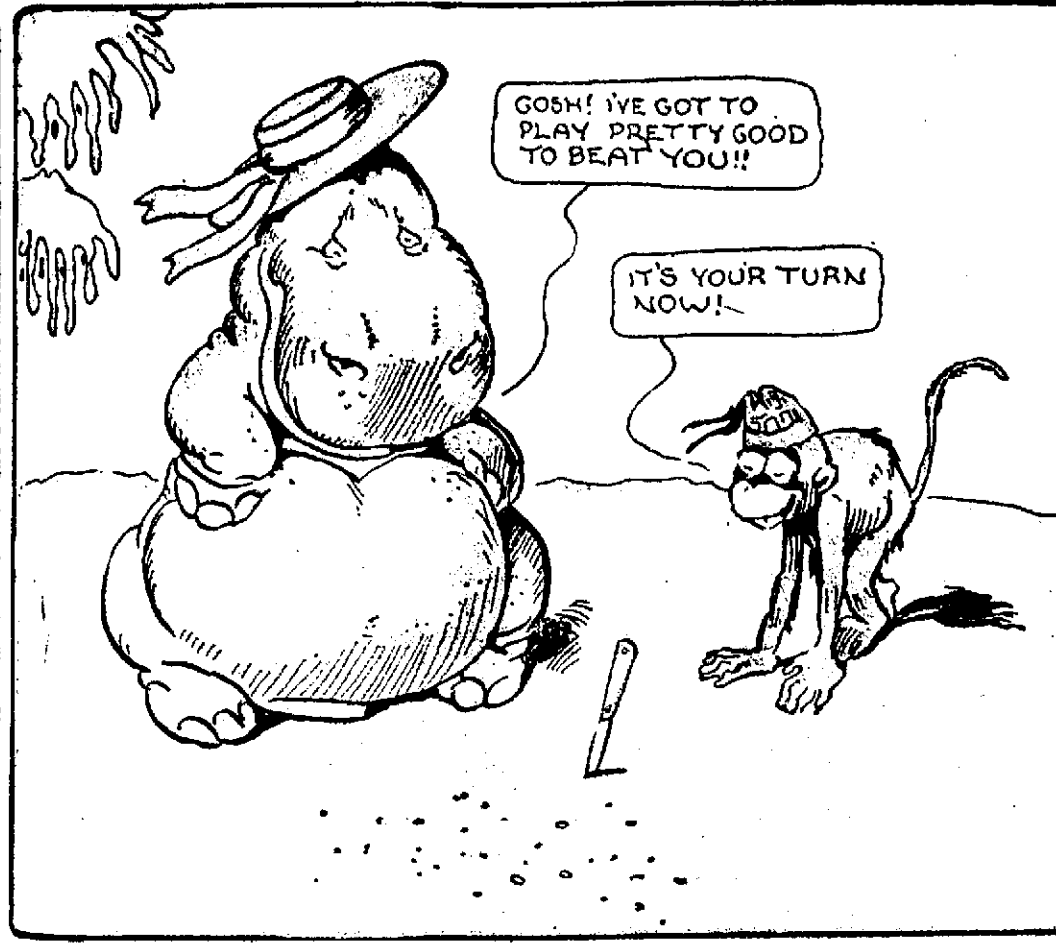

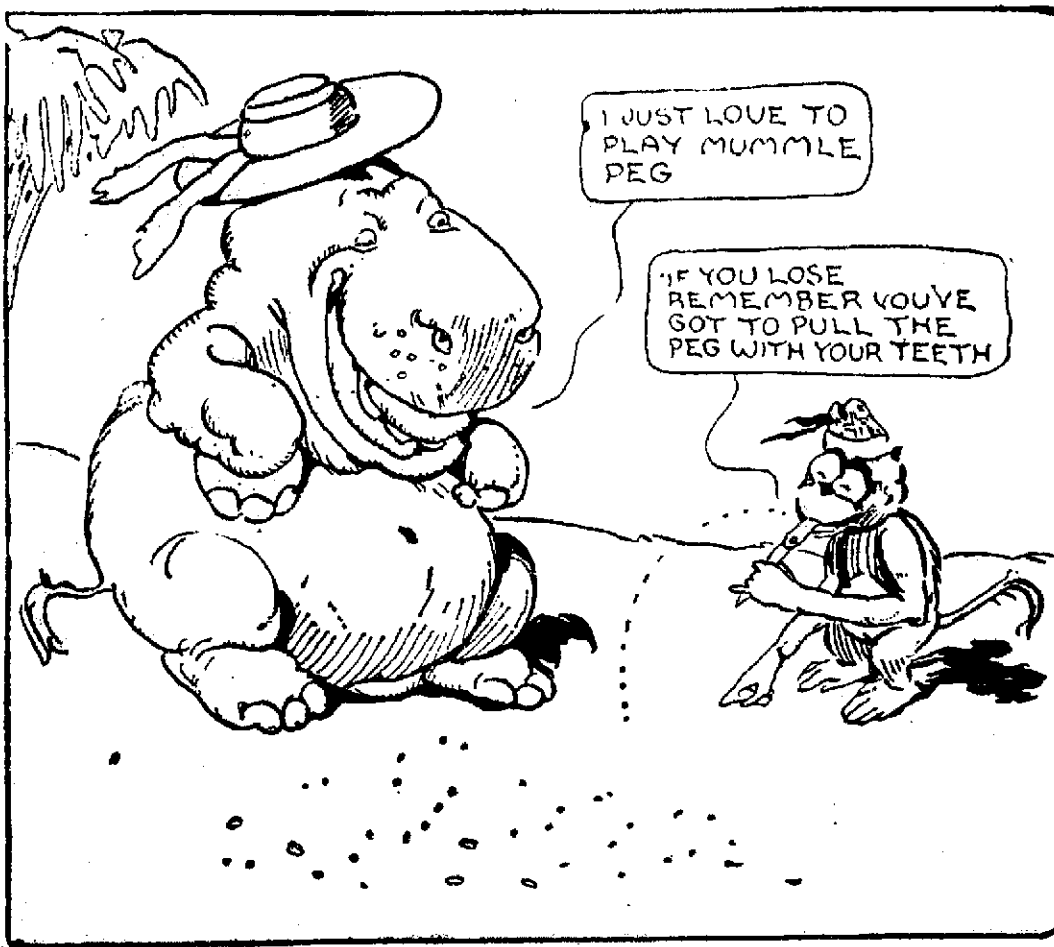

"Brer Possum run off a little ways an' make like he's done dead, but when de creeturs went off, he got up an' went on 'bout his business."

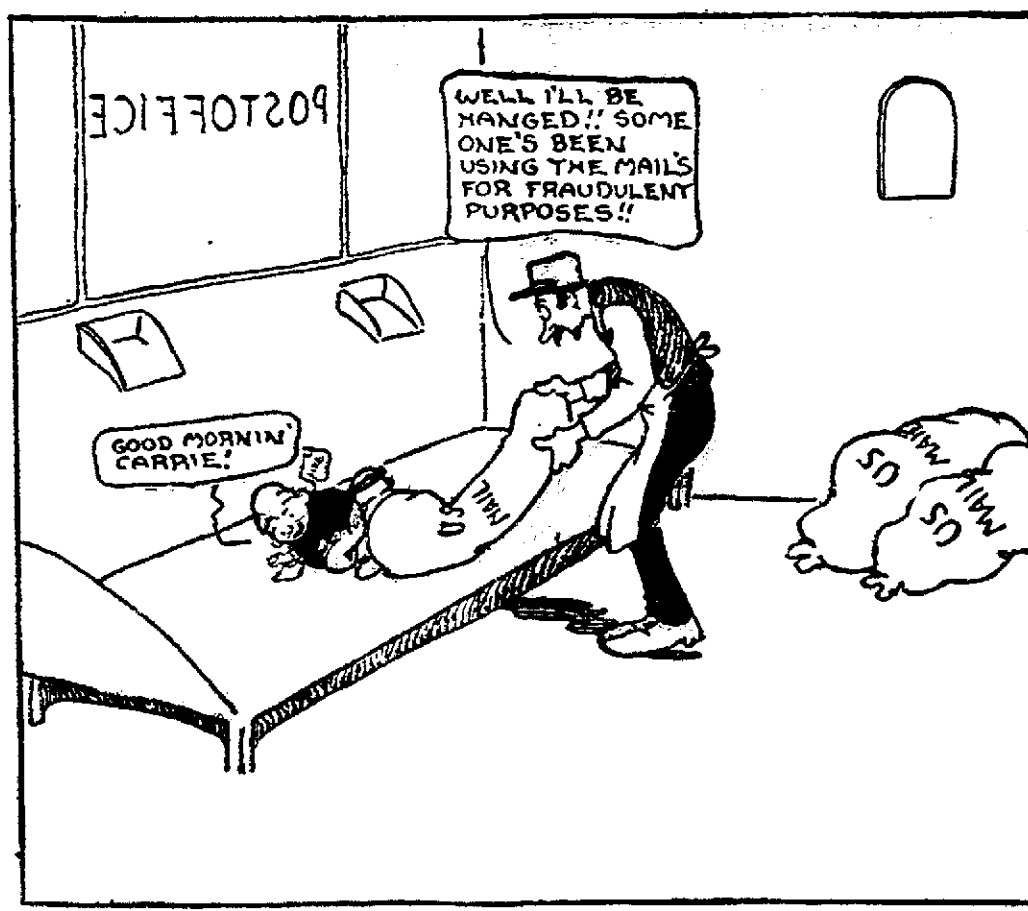

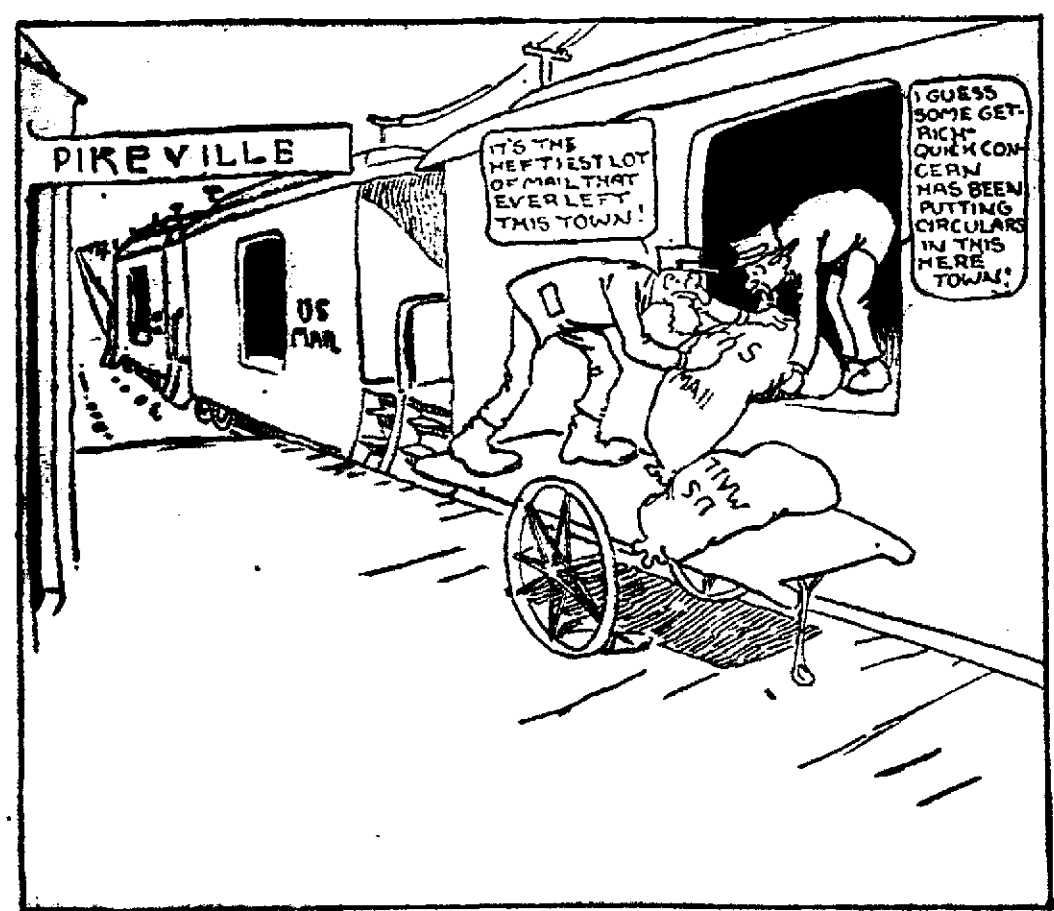

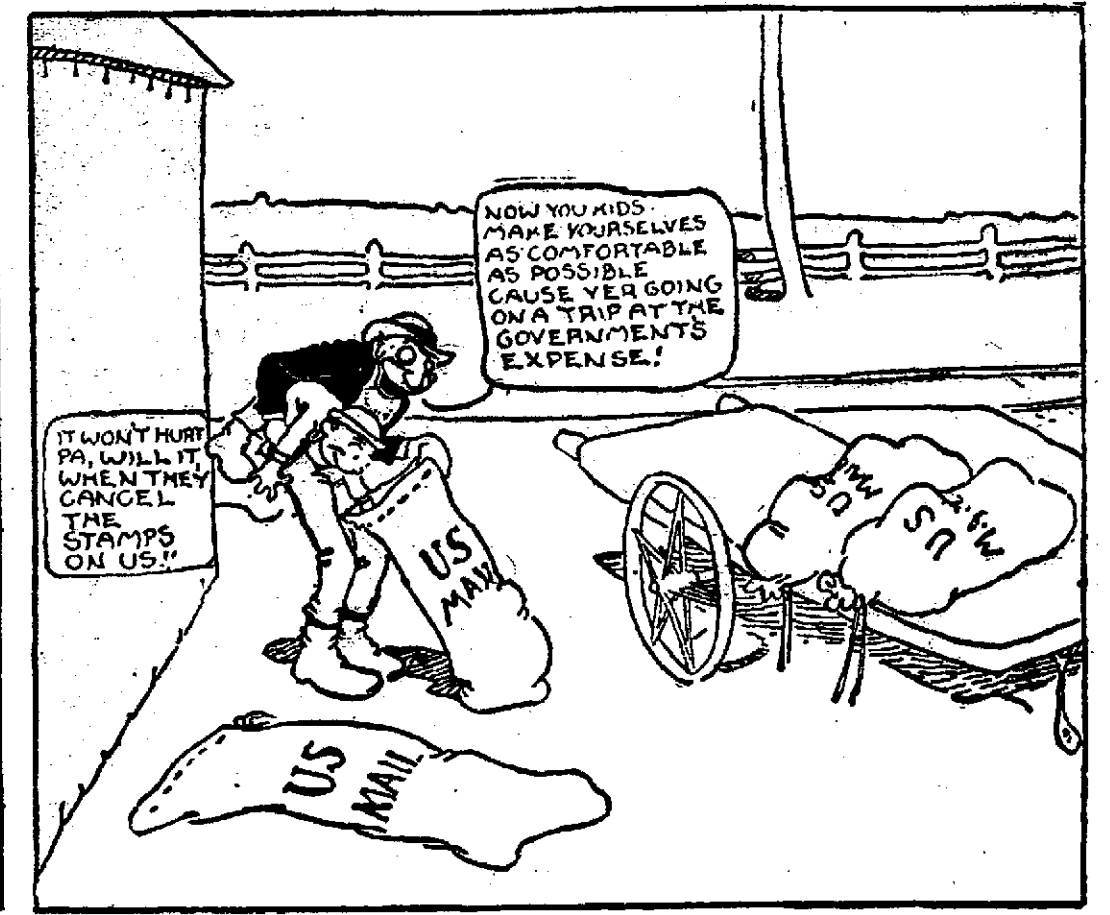

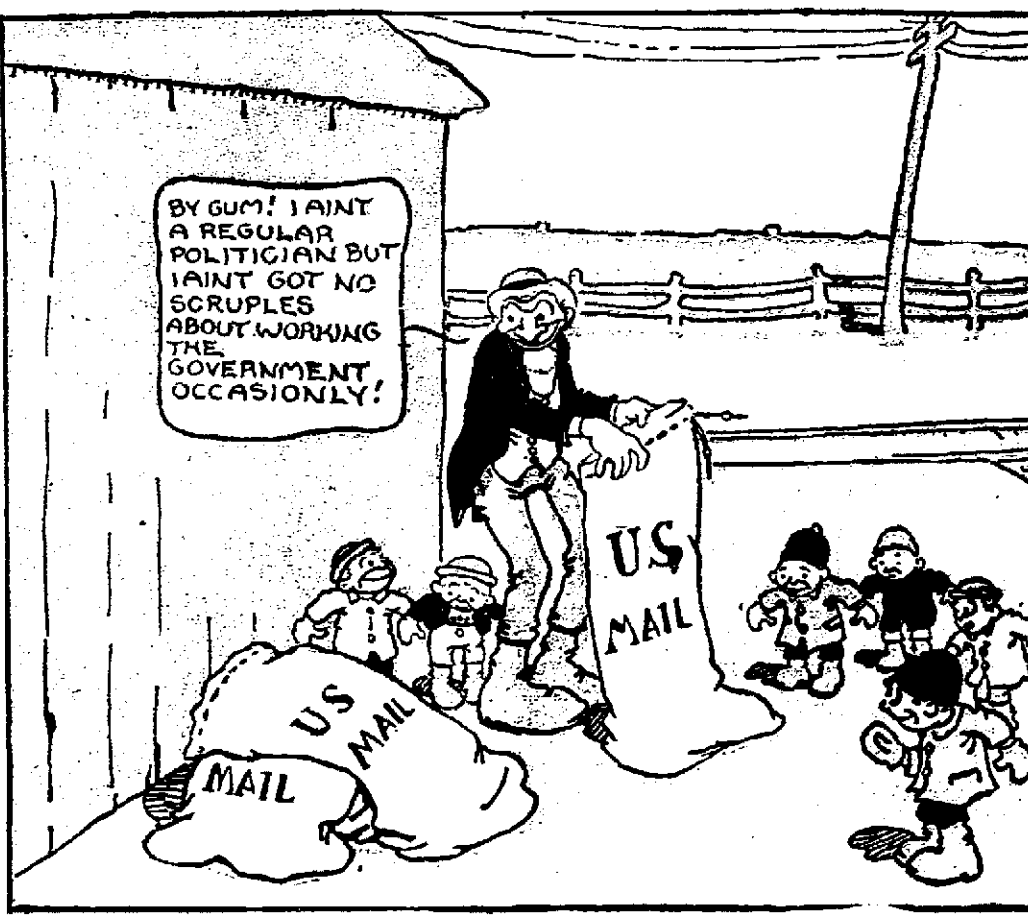

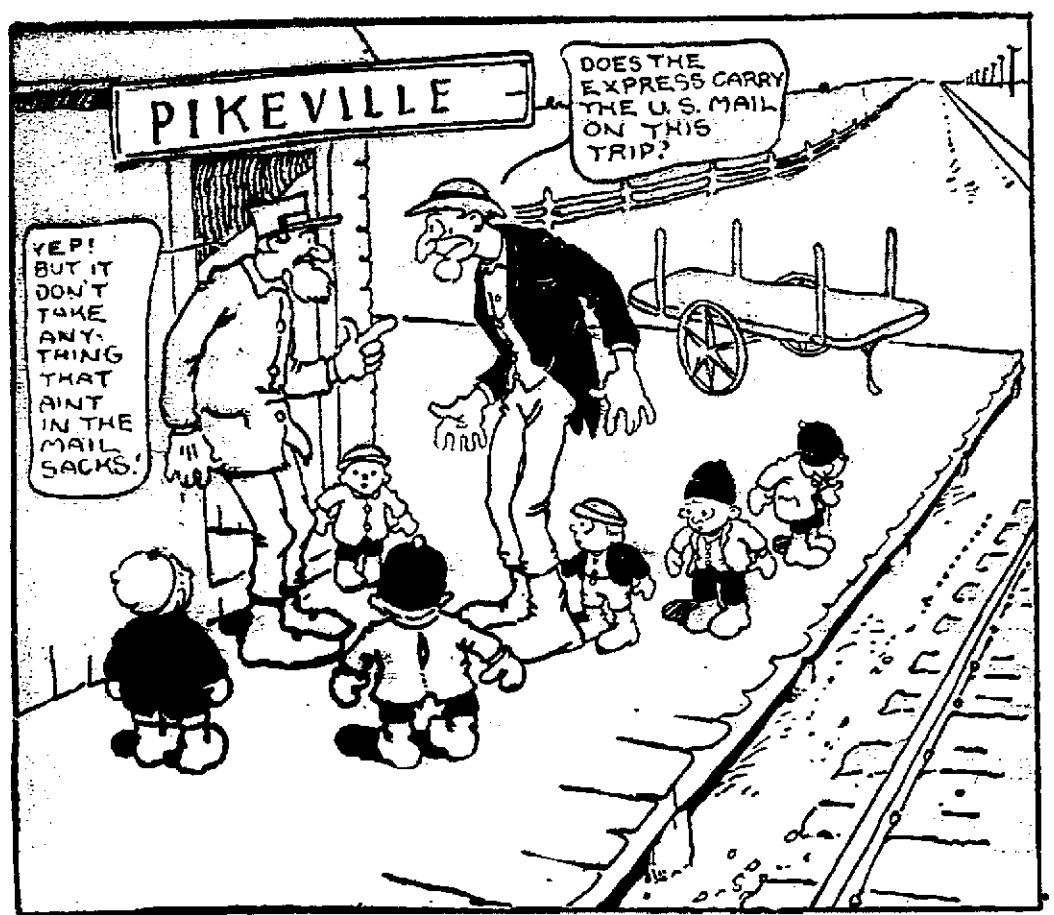

"And they didn't catch Brother Rabbit?" said the little boy. "Shoo, honey! what I been tellin' you 'bout dat nimbley creetur? When de yuthers went whar dey seed 'im, dey ain't fin' nothin' 'tall but teers an' underbresh-birds in de tree, an' clouds sailin' over dey moughter fool deyse'f, but dey can't fool Brer Rabbit!"

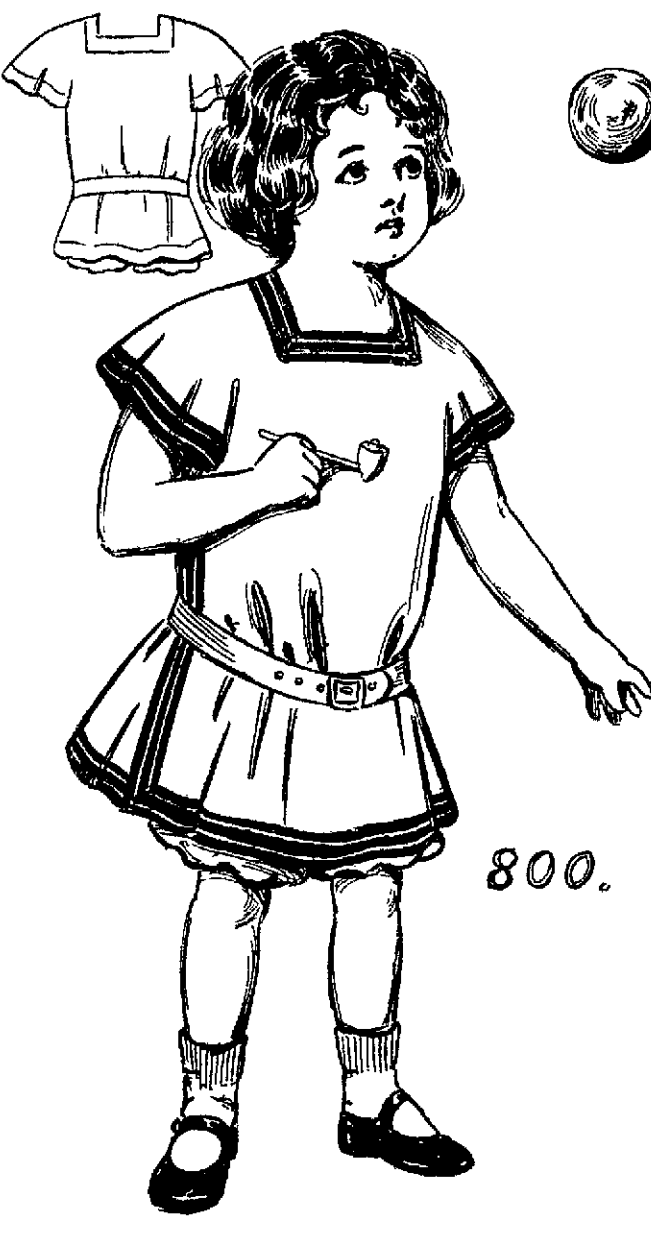

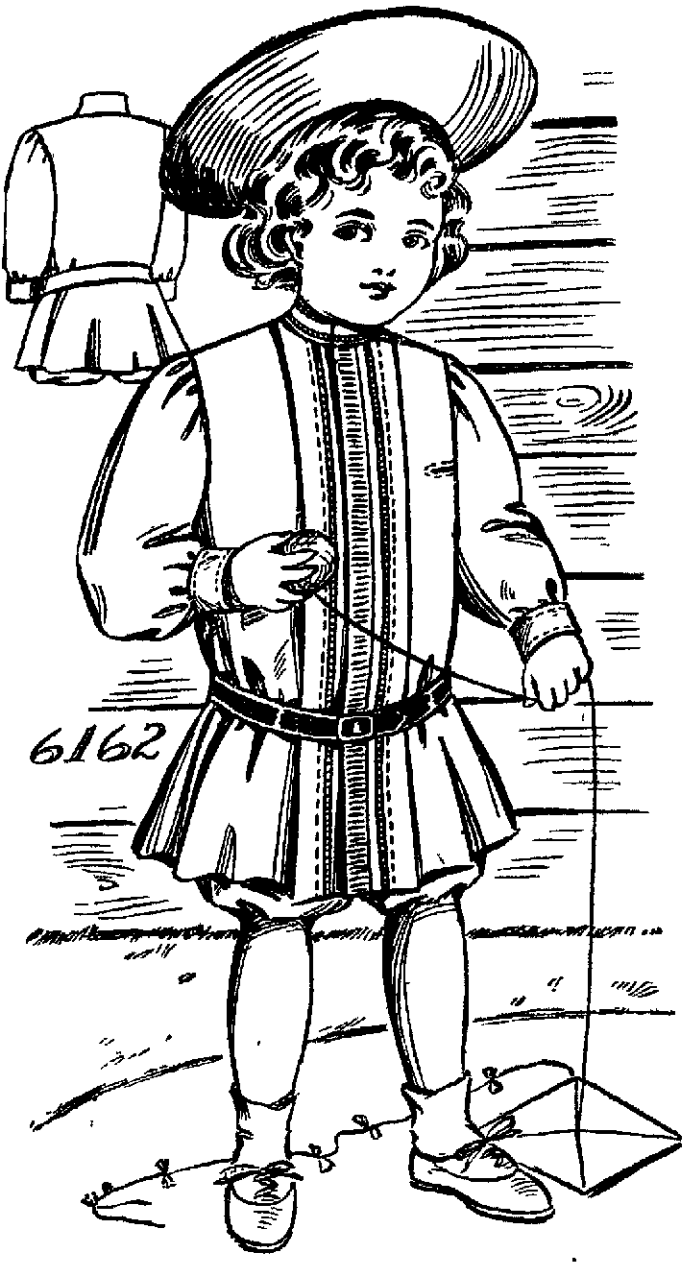

A LITTLE GAME OF MUMMLE PEG IN THE JUNGLE

UNCLE PIKE AND THE U. S. MALES

For Boys And Girls

THIS week we present four of the latest models of summer garments for small folk.

A natty style for the little boy is 6162. Sizes for 4, 5, 6, 7 years. The five-year size will require 2 1/2 yards of 36-inch material. This smart little model consists of a blouse and knickerbocker trousers. It would be very becoming developed in white or colored pique trimmed with braid. It is also suitable for checked gingham and the woolen materials.

6163 Girl's Dress. Cut to sizes 4 to 12 years. 8-year size will require 4 1/2 yards of 36-inch material. A dainty mode is here shown that is pretty in the sheer fabrics and in the light-weight woollens and silks. The blouse waist is mounted on a lining and may be either high or low neck. The Princess front is a stylish addition, but may be omitted if preferred. Full length and short puff sleeves are supplied.

6147. Girl's Over-Dress. Cut in five sizes, 4 to 12 years. Eight-year size will require 4 1/2 yards of 36-inch material. Valenciennes lace and insertion was used for trimming this dainty little dress of white lawn. It is in becoming blouse style with short, wide Mandarin sleeves, and is equally pretty on a low neck dress or worn over a gingham. Challis, China silk, linen and gingham are all suitable.

800 Little Boy's One-Piece Dress with Knickerbockers. Sizes for 2, 4 and 6 years. The four-year size will require 2 1/2 yards of 36-inch material. This simple and pretty little frock is cut with front, back and sleeves all in one piece. It slips on over the head and buttons under the arm. The little trousers open at the sides. They are in genuine knickerbocker style, full at the knee. For cool weather it could be made of woolen material, and be worn over a gumpie. Linen pique and gingham are suggested.

Patterns will be sent to any address on receipt of ten cents each, by Marjorie Dane, 45 West Thirty-fourth street, New York City.

To avoid delay, do not fail to state size of pattern desired, and be sure to write name and address plainly.

Etiquette of Mourning

AT no time is good breeding more severely tested than when death enters the social circle.

Directly you hear that a friend's home has been visited by death, you call to offer your sympathy and your services. This latter duty is particularly expected of men, who, at such times, may be of practical service. On the other hand, if the members of the bereaved family are entirely at liberty to decline to receive any guests at all. This announcement is made by the servant or relative in attendance at the front door.

In case you cannot call in person, or you are not received, then send or leave your card, bearing the word "sympathy" written across it. As a rule, floral offerings are sent to the house on the day of the funeral. Intimate friends, however, sometimes bring loose cut flowers when they call with their condolences.

The request that you act as pall-bearer is regarded as both a compliment and an obligation. Only those whom the deceased held in deep regard are supposed to receive such a request, and to refuse it you must have some valid and strong excuse.

As for the house of mourning, it is customary to have all arrangements placed in the hands of some reliable family friend, who secures the undertaker and arranges for the lot or cremation, while a woman friend attends to the ordering of mourning gowns, bonnets, etc. Members of the bereaved family seldom appear on the street from the hour of the death until the funeral.

A perfectly plain black dress with an all-enveloping veil will serve for the funeral, and often this can be borrowed, the complete mourning being purchased later on. A woman can add a black bordered handkerchief, but well-dressed men never use them. The men of the family should have black suits, gloves, ties and hats. The latter has a black cloth mourning band around it.

Some member of the family with sufficient self-control should plan the seating and carriages for intimate friends. Often family dissensions are started and old friendships jarred by carelessness in this matter.

Mourning customs after the funeral vary according to family traditions. Houses are generally thrown open and made as cheerful as possible, and in many well-bred families mourning is not worn at all. Subdued colorings are affected, but crepe is eschewed. Other women wear white and black only—white for the house and entirely black for the street.

Beautiful gowns in white crepe de chine and even pure crepe are shown for this purpose.

If mourning is worn at all, it must be complete, and then certain conventions must be observed. Henrietta and cashmere make the best dresses, French serge the best tailor-made suits, crepe de chine for house frocks. Black taffetas and other lustrous silks are not mourning, but surah and any dull silk are permissible. The widow's bonnet is marked by a rucho and her veil is of crepe or grenadine. Some women cannot endure the touch of crepe. Unmarried daughters of the family wear small hats or toques trimmed with lusterless silk or crepe draped with veils. Glove or suede gloves may be worn. No jewelry save the wedding ring and mourning beads or pins may be worn. Gun metal and dull black enameled pins, cuff links, brooches, belt pins, etc., are good form.

Deep mourning, with its accompaniments, is worn for a parent or a child. That means that the same mourning which a mother wears for a child, the child wears for a mother. Stationary is white bordered with black, half an inch for the first six months, then a quarter of an inch, and finally the Italian border for the second year. Lavender and grey stationery are not mourning. Cards correspond to the stationery.

Notes of acknowledgment should be written within a reasonable time after the funeral. This includes acknowledgments of calls, cards and flowers. "Thanks for your sympathy" written across your mourning card is sufficient.

And lastly, remember that if you are in mourning, you do not attend places of amusement where your sombre robes would appear out of place. A dance, an afternoon tea, a big luncheon, a wedding—those are not for the woman in mourning. When you are ready to resume your place in the social whirl, incidentally, do not put on mourning at all unless you think you have the strength of character to stick to it and deny yourself all social pleasures while wearing it. There is absolutely no hard and fast rule about mourning today, and it is a question which every family, every individual must settle.

In reply to a most common question, the widow continues to have her husband's name on her calling cards. She is still "Mrs. James Henry West." Not "Mrs. Eleanor West." She uses the signature "Eleanor West" on all letters, business papers, etc. If, however, she has a son "James Henry" who is married, then his wife becomes "Mrs. James Henry West," and the widow has her cards engraved "Mrs. Eleanor West."

Beauty Hints for Those in Mourning

LACK is the most trying of all colors. Mourning lacks the lustre of even the usual black raiment, and hence the woman who does it often finds that it makes her look haggard, sallow and old. Only the really youthful face and figure look well in all black. The average brunette looks either ghastly or sallow, and mourning brings out the lines and wrinkles in the face of the average blonde.

Black, unrelieved, also accentuates every tiny defect in the skin and makes even a good complexion appear a trifle muddy. It is, therefore, all important that the flesh and the hair should be kept immaculately clean. Oily hair is particularly ugly by contrast with severe mourning, and it must be washed frequently to make it look as fluffy as possible. Between shampooing, it is well to rub the roots of the hair near the face and neck with alcohol, at least once a day. If the ordinary shampoo causes cold in the head, I will be glad to furnish any of my readers with a lotion which is most cleansing and which may be substituted for the regular shampoo.

Freckles and moth-patches are made more prominent by wearing mourning, and the woman who has never noticed them much before donning black, becomes thoroughly aroused and seeks a remedy. For small light freckles and incipient moth-patches, there is no better remedy than plain lemon juice. Cut a lemon in half and rub the freckles or moth-patches twice a day. If the skin is dry, follow the lemon treatment, say in half an hour, with a touch of cold cream.

If the freckles will not yield to lemon, then a bleach must be used formula for which I will furnish on receipt of a stamped and self-addressed envelope. However, I never advise the use of this bleach until the lemon cure has been thoroughly tested.

If the skin is generally sallow and muddy, add plenty of fruit and drink quantities of water. Then try this whiteners:

Take two tablespoonfuls of oatmeal, adding one quart of water and boil ten minutes. Cool and strain, and to the liquid add the juice of one very large or two smaller lemons, and a dessertspoonful of pure alcohol. Wash the face in this, or rather apply it with a cloth, not wiping it all away.

While white ruching or turnover collars of white organdie are worn with mourning blouses, the general effect of black raiment emphasizes any tendency to a yellow neck. With some women the sallow, yellowish neck is a real affliction and it requires vigorous treatment. I am giving a lotion which will prove most effective.

Boric acid, 1 drachm; distilled witch hazel, 2 ounces; rosewater, 2 ounces. Exercise the neck until a free perspiration appears then bathe it off in warm water and apply the above lotion.

Black, and particularly lusterless silks, bring out the beauty of the hand as colors never do. The woman in mourning should therefore be particularly careful to keep her nails highly polished. I will be pleased to furnish any of my readers with a reliable formula for a polish that will give just the desired gleam to the pearly pink nails.

Beneath the shadow of a lusterless black hat or a draped veil, the face is apt to appear dull and lifeless, if not ghastly. To prevent this use a bit of make-up carefully applied, and worked skillfully into the flesh.

Color cream the face thoroughly, and wipe it off, making sure that not a bit of the cream exudes from the skin, then apply the rouge with a hare's foot on the cheek bones, not in a round spot or a dash, but brokenly, working it out lightly toward the edges where it fades into the natural flesh tint. Then powder the face lightly with the face powder best suited to your skin, white for the very pale blonde, flesh for the ordinary skin, and "Rachel" or brunette for the dark skin. An excellent formula for dry rouge is as follows:

Four ounces of finely boiled tale and two drachms of carmine. Make a solution of gum tragacanth and warm water—a very little only is required. Mix the tale and the carmine first well together, and stir them. Add enough of the dried gum tragacanth to form into a smooth paste and allow it to dry.

Some women prefer a liquid rouge, a formula for this will be furnished on request. It has frequently appeared in this department.

A touch of color to the lips does much to relieve the deadening effect of mourning. The following lip salve may be used with excellent results and is entirely safe, healing as well as beautifying.

One ounce of spermaceti ointment; 15 grains of Balsam of Peru; 15 grains of Alkanet root. 5 drops of oil of cloves. Digest the alkanet in the ointment at a gentle heat, till the latter is a deep rose color, then pass through a coarse strainer. When slightly cooled, stir in the balsam. Give a few moments to settle and then pour off the clear portion and add the oil of cloves.

Latest Mourning Fashions

URING the first six months of mourning, dress is seldom a vital question with the bereaved ones. Generally other problems arise to demand time and attention, legal settlements, readjustment of family relations and methods of living, etc. The first mourning frocks, therefore, merely meet pressing needs and simple lines with dull fabrics and crepe bands fill the entire bill.

With the second half year of black gowning, however, there generally arises not only the need for more carefully chosen raiment, but a renewal of interest in the eternal clothes question. Indeed, there is nothing more foolish or inconsiderate on the part of the bereaved woman than to show utter disregard for frocks and frocks. Her influence in this respect is bad for the entire family, and depressing as well.

While all black frocks, relieved by only certain touches or accessories of white, remain obligatory during the second period of mourning, there is more laxity as to fabric and the fashions in which they are used. In word, during the second six months of mourning there is a decided reversion to dressiness.

The fabrics suitable for this period are all dull, dead and without any gloss whatever. They include albatross, nun's veiling, henrietta cloth, voile over silk, crepe de chine, dull grenadines, nets, India silk, pongee, and in so-called tub fabrics, mull, organdie and lawn. The latter may only in the very best quality. Otherwise it turns green. Perhaps for blouses there is absolutely nothing to compare with the best grade of India silk, which cleans and washes admirably and is as cool as lawn. Very often even a high-priced lawn will crock or rub off on the skin.

For trimming purposes, bear in mind that lace is never mourning, however much you may see others don it in connection with so-called mourning frocks. You can, however, trim your cloth frocks with bands of mourning silk, faille, ottoman, armure, etc., in dull finish. Soutache and fancy braids in black, passementerie in silk, tiny buttons covered with plain mourning silk or dull crocheted silk or braid, embroidered silk bands and hand embroidered pieces, such as yokes, cuffs and vests, are permissible. Hand embroidery is now considered the smartest of trimming for mourning gowns. Jet trimming of any sort and jet ornaments cannot be worn during any period of mourning.

The only touches of white permissible during this period are at the throat and wrists; ruching of all sorts, folds of white crepe or soft net and turnover collars and cuffs of fine lawn in homesteading, or organdie and Swiss which may be white folded and not even stitched. White and black maline bows may be worn at the throat, but no sort of lace, white or black, can be used as neckwear.

Fine Home Garden Shrubs

The most glorious flowering shrub for very early spring is the forsythia, also known as golden bell. It grows to a height of 8 and even 10 feet, and has a wonderful yellow flame of blossoms that absolutely hide the branches before a single leaf appears. The branches arch over and make a delightful shrub that is satisfactory all the year. It will make its finest show if planted against a dark background. Give each plant plenty of room, for the branches will spread widely and will finally bend to the earth again and root at the tips.

It is little troubled by insects, and needs only slight pruning. There are several varieties. The one described here is forsythia suspensa, and it is by far the most satisfactory. Young plants, from 2 to 3 years old, and about 2 feet high, can be bought for 25 cents each. For a fine group, plant 3 or 4 of these, giving each plant from 4 to 5 feet of clear space around it. One plant will be sufficient for a small place. Do not set this shrub in the middle of an open space. It needs background.

The showiest flowering bush for midsummer bloom is the weigelia. This is one of our very hardiest plants, withstanding not only all sorts of climatic conditions, but being able to flourish where other shrubs would fail. It will do almost equally well in shady or sunny places. For this reason it is splendid for shrubbery in desired spots that are shaded either by the house or by big trees.

It branches so widely and sturdily that it becomes almost tree-like under favorable conditions, and, therefore, is a shrub that will look well standing alone, although like all other shrubs it is most effective in groups.

Weigelia candida has pure white rose-colored blossoms. Weigelia rosea, variegated has charming variegated foliage, and is to be preferred where only one specimen can be planted.

This shrub is free from insects, except that occasionally a borer will attack it. It is easy to prevent this by ordinary watchfulness, as the arrival of the enemy is announced almost at once by the appearance of the branch. To keep this shrub at its best, all old wood should be cut out regularly, close to the ground.

Plants 2 to 3 years old cost 25 cents each. Both of these shrubs can be planted any time this month, or they can go in fairly early in the fall, in which case the forsythia may produce some blossom by next April, while the weigelia is pretty sure to bear flowers by next summer if the plants are sturdy.

Tomato Toast: Allow a large circular piece of toast for each person. On this lay a medium thick slice of tomato (raw and unskinned). Over this tomato scatter finely minced green peppers and onions, a little salt and some grated American or Edam cheese. Have your oven very hot, or better still, if you have a gas stove, use the broiler. Set your slices of tomato on toast in a shallow baking pan, place this in a hot oven or under the broiler jets, and cook until the cheese is melted and lightly browned, sufficient time to cook the tomato.

Appetizing Breakfast Dishes

Shirred Eggs with Tomatoes: For a family of six allow six eggs and six small tomatoes. Plunge the latter into boiling water for one minute, drain and skin. Trim off the stems and divide into quarters. Melt a teaspoon of butter and brown in this one small onion peeled and chopped, or two shallots, peeled and chopped fine. Add the tomatoes and some finely chopped parsley, season with salt and pepper, mix lightly, cover the pan and let this cook twelve minutes. Butter your shirred egg dishes, break gently into each a fresh egg, season with pepper and salt, cook for one minute on top of range. Then set in oven for five minutes. When done, pour the tomato sauce over them and serve in the individual dishes.

Browned Potatoes: Common fried or hashed potatoes call at this season of the year. Try these browned potatoes, to be served with scrambled eggs or an omelet. While preparing your dinner, boil raw potatoes cut into round balls, in a little soup stock with an onion, pepper and salt, to give them a good flavor. When almost but not quite done, drain the potatoes and set away for the next morning. Then butter a shallow baking pan, set in the potatoes brushed over with melted butter, set them in the hot oven or under the broiler jets and brown crisply.

Peas are usually permitted to grow pretty closely together. Three inches between plants is generally ample. To get very fine radishes, thin the plants to make them stand two inches apart. If you propose to gather most of the radishes while they are still very young and small, let the plants stay close together, as you will then thin them naturally.

Suggestions for Mourning Millinery

MANY women who have gone into mourning seem quite able to decide just what is proper in the way of clothes and just what they want, but when the time comes to buy a hat, they hesitate. The proper hat gives the right finish to a costume and its selection is really important.

The question of the widow's bonnet is the one most easily settled. Ninety-nine women out of every hundred who lose their husbands put on the regulation widow's bonnet of the same style that their mothers wore. There is nothing new in the style of a widow's bonnet. It is a small, round buckram frame that fits close to the head. The edges are bound with bands of crepe and the inside is faced with the widow's rucho, which can be purchased at any department store for a few cents. Over this frame is draped the crepe or grenadine veil, pinned on with dull black pins. It should never be sewed on.

For women who do not wear veils, many smart models are shown in mourning styles. Perhaps the most substantial hat is made of dull black mourning silk trimmed with stiff bows of the same goods, and set off with stiff wings. Let me add here that with crepe feathers are not permissible in any stage of mourning, neither are velvet, spangles or any bright ornaments.

Two shapes are very prominent just now, one the very large flat side raised just a suggestion on one side, the other a tight fitting toque raised extremely high at the left side and trimmed profusely next the hair. Many of the all crepe hats are faced with white crepe, the upper portion of the hat made of black crepe, the trimmings of white crepe. Over these hats should be worn a face veil of plain mesh edged with a band of crepe. Spotted veils are not mourning.

For warmer weather, hats made of shirred chiffon or silk net over a wire frame are fashionable. These hats can be trimmed with soft choux, or bows of dull black ribbon, set off by a dainty black bird, or black quills. On the counters of all millinery shops will be found mourning flowers, such as dull black violets silk roses with black centers, etc. These are extremely pretty for trimming hats. Bunches of grapes set off with dull black leaves are among the newest novelties seen for mourning millinery.

For second mourning you must be careful in selecting trimming for your millinery. White roses with green foliage are not mourning in any sense of the word. Neither may the roses have yellow centers. If your violets are purple with green stems then you must hide the stems in the other trimming. Remember also that cream colored lace is not second mourning. It must be dead-white tulle or net. Leghorn hats cannot be worn at all. In their place select a dead white chiffon hat trimmed with soft white ribbons and flowers. In this limited space it is impossible to cover the entire subject, but I shall be glad to give personal answers to any reader sending me stamped and self-addressed envelope for their reply.

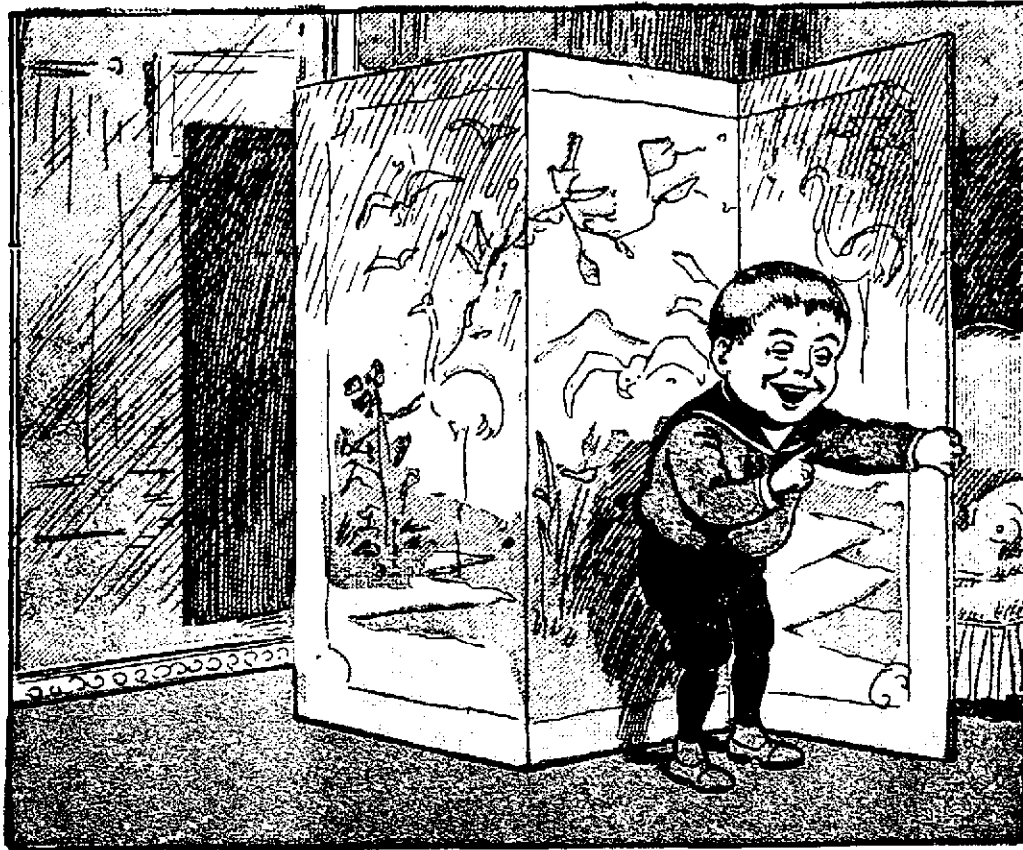

CODFISH RECIPES

Codfish Balls: This economical fish is especially palatable in spring if properly prepared. Cook together in boiling water one cup of salt codfish, picked in small pieces, and two cups of diced potatoes. When the potatoes are quite soft, drain them and mash. Add half a tablespoon of butter, a well beaten egg and a liberal dash of pepper. Beat with a fork for two or three minutes, and salt. Take up by tablespoonfuls, put in frying basket and fry in deep fat until thoroughly browned, then drain on brown paper. Serve very hot.

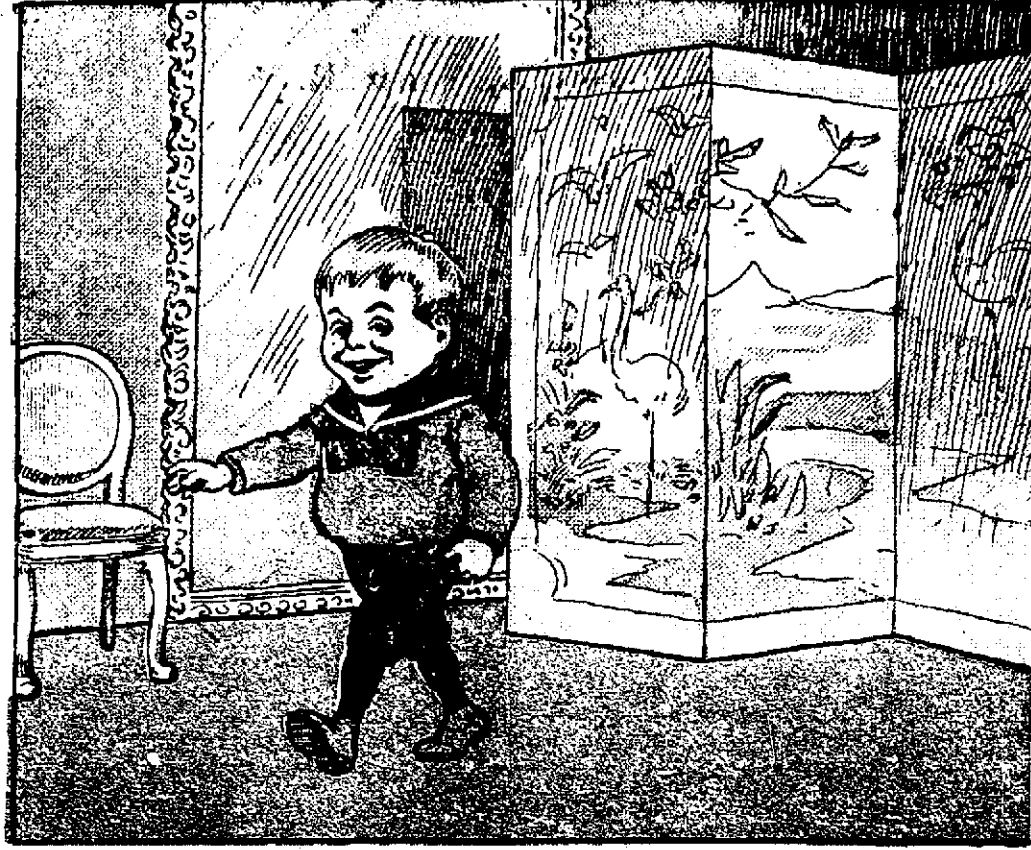

Creamed Salt Codfish: Pick the cod in small pieces. Soak one and a half cups of this picked fish in warm water for half an hour. Drain off and add two cups of white sauce seasoned with pepper. Add two eggs slightly beaten just before serving. Serve on toast with hard boiled eggs sliced over it. Some families like this dish with half a cup of grated cheese added to it. Allow the cheese to melt in the sauce before adding the eggs.

The larger clippings from California privet hedges will root with equal ease. Willows of all sorts, poplars, catalpa and almost all the hardy shrubs will root well. To get a tall background or a screen quickly and cheaply, nothing is so easy as to plant poplar branches close together. Five out of six poplar cuttings will thrive, even if they are as long as five feet when thrust into the ground. Peel away a few inches of bark at the bottom. They will often have quite a showing of leaves within a few weeks after planting.

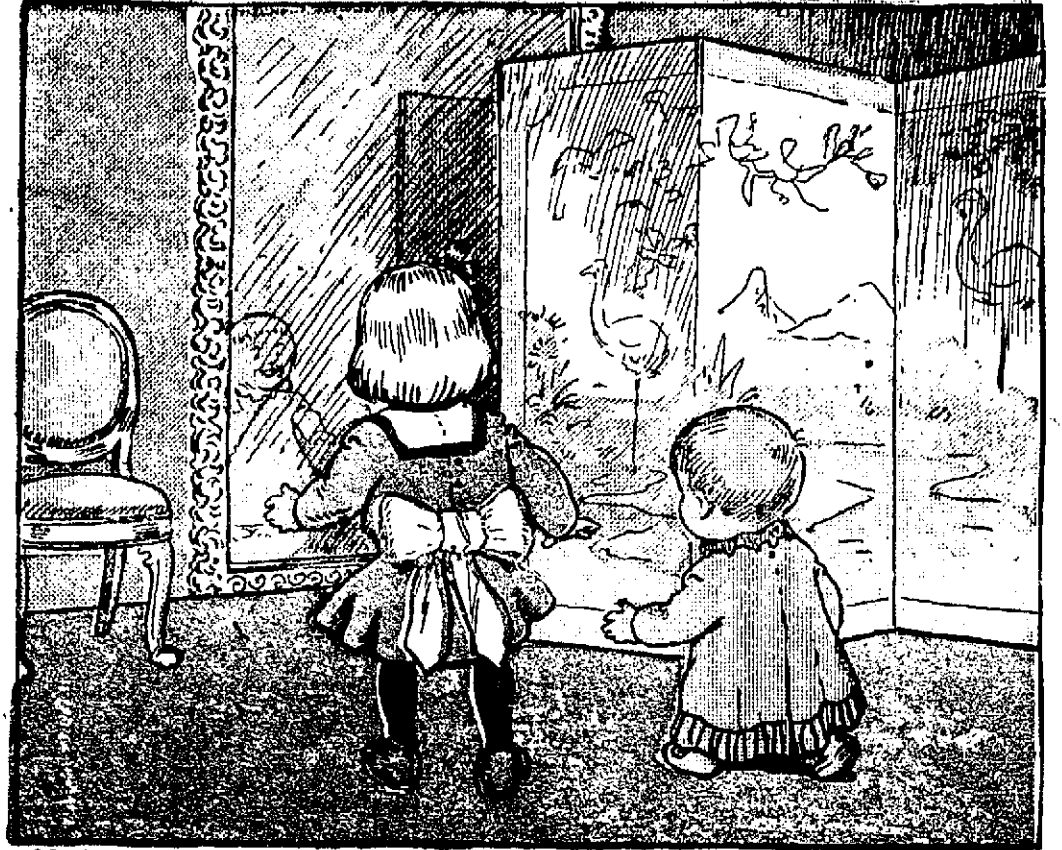

THE TEASERS: BOBBY LEARNS SOMETHING ABOUT REFLECTION

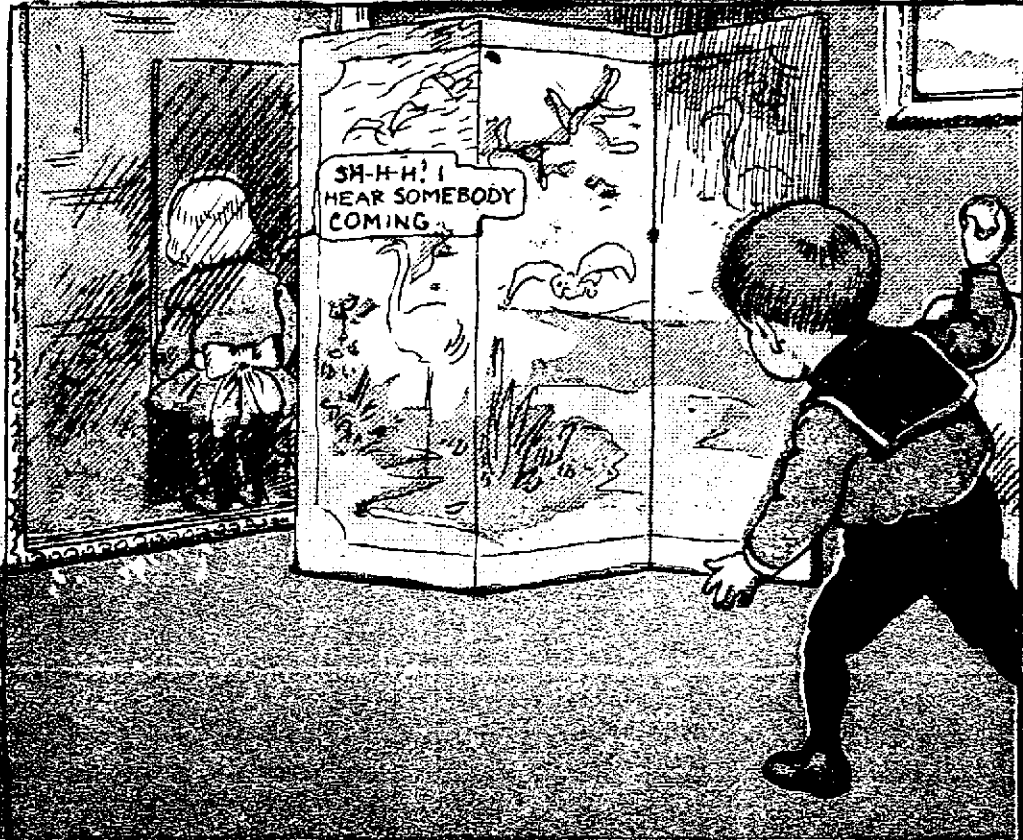

Bobby—I'll hide behind the screen and when the kids come in I'll soak 'em.

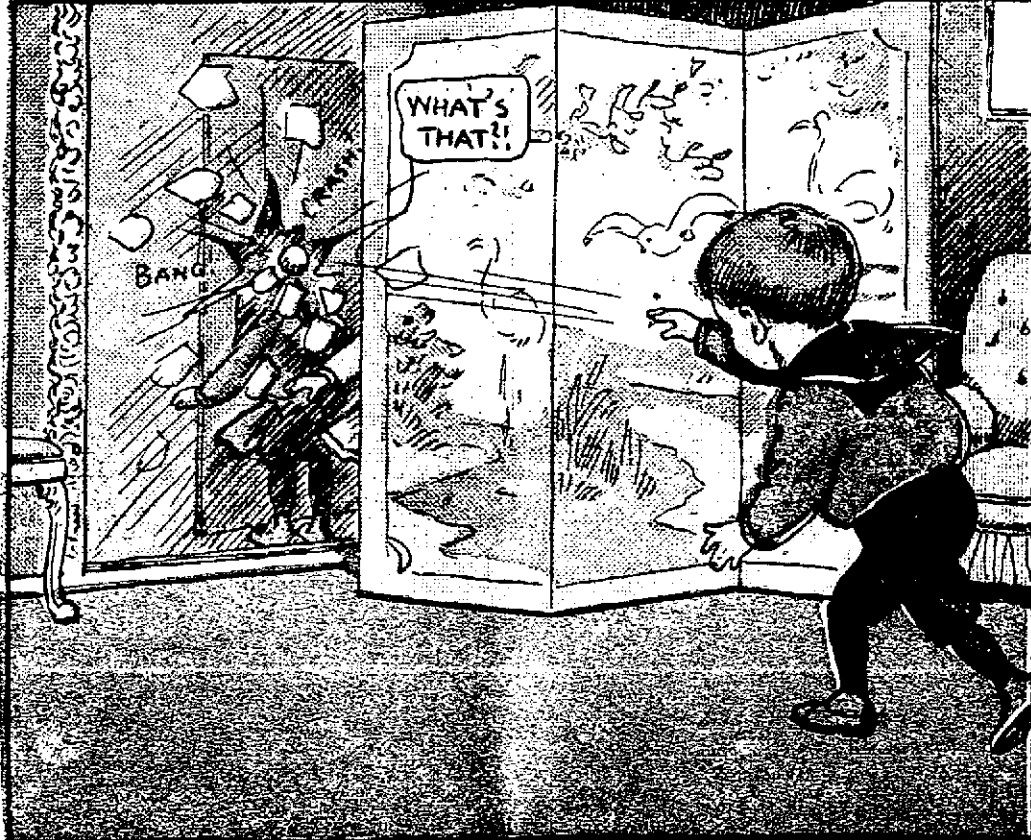

Bobby—I've got a nice hard rubber ball upstairs that will be just the thing to soak them with! I'll go up and get it.

Marjorie—Oh, just see the new big mirror papa bought! Let's get behind the screen where nobody can see us and look at ourselves in it.

Bobby (Coming back)—Gosh! There's those fresh kids now I'll soak 'em with the ball, and then—

Bobby—Gee! What have I struck?!

Father—You little scamp! Do you see what you have done? You've smashed the new parlor mirror! !
